Our Assemblyman Calls It A Career

By CHARLES BERMPOHL
Republican party leaders were apparently taken completely by surprise by Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson's decision not to seek reelection to the post he has held since 1953.

'Quite a Bombshell'
Kingston Attorney S. James Matthews said that he was "completely flabbergasted" by the Wilson move, and Attorney H. Clark Bell, prominently mentioned as a possible successor to his fellow Woodstock Republican, claimed, "It's quite a bombshell."

According to Sherwood E. Davis, legislative assistant to the assemblyman, the final decision not to seek the post again in a release given to the local news media, the reason given for Wilson's action at this time is "because of the imminent party conventions this year (Wilson) felt that an immediate and final decision had to be made in fairness to his party."

Wilson is quoted as saying, "The unanimous requests to run again by party leaders, and the rank and file of the Republican party, are most gratifying and have made this decision doubly hard."

16 Years in Assembly
"However, after over a quarter of a century of serving in elective office, I have finally decided to step down. My 10 years on the Ulster County Board of Supervisors and my 16 years in the New York State Assembly have been so rewarding and inspiring that I will always appreciate the experiences and the opportunities that I had to serve my constituents.

"I shall never forget them," Wilson said.

Thanking "my thousands of friends and the multitude of loyal workers who have made my long and rewarding public career possible," Assemblyman Wilson pointed to the activity that will now be taking place inside the party when he stated, "with the wealth of material we have in the Republican party in Ulster County, we can face the future with confidence and enthusiasm."

Sources close to inside party circles have suggested the names of four men who may now be making phone calls and contacting friends in an effort to assess the strength that will be needed to gain the party's designation in a convention that will have to take place sometime before March 26.

Mentioned have been Peter J. Savago, chairman of the County Legislature, Kingston insurance man Lawrence A. Quilty, former Constitutional Convention delegate H. Clark Bell and Plattkill's Joseph Martorana.

Because of the influential position he holds, some sources see Savago as having an edge in any competition that may develop for the post.

Wilson was elected as supervisor for the Town of Woodstock in 1944, a post which he held until 1953. In 1949 he was elected as majority leader of the Board of Supervisors, serving in that capacity until the end of his tenure as Woodstock's top officeholder.

Elected in 1953
He was elected to the assembly in 1953 to fill the vacancy created by the death of John F. Wadlin.

Wilson served on a number of important committees while in the assembly and, until the summer of last year, was the chairman of the Ulster County Republican Committee.

Ambush Marines; Casualties Heavy

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese troops ambushed and overwhelmed a U.S. Marine platoon 800 yards outside the barbed wire of the Khe Sanh combat base today. A second platoon of about 45 men sent to help also suffered casualties.

Several Marine officers said they believe the North Vietnamese now are in position and set to launch a large-scale ground attack on Khe Sanh with up to 40,000 men.

AP Correspondent John T. Wheeler reported from the base in the northwestern corner of the country that Marine jet dive bombers dropped bombs and napalm on the Communists in efforts to cover the Marines trying to get back into the base. One air observer said he saw Marines lying on the ground and Communist soldiers swimming through the area just before the bombs fell.

The Leathernecks inside the base gave the survivors cover with tank guns, recoilless rifles and machine guns.

Heavy Casualties
Marine casualties were not announced under new security regulations that went into effect today. But they obviously were heavy.

The patrol, sent out to gather intelligence, was hit 800 yards beyond the outer wire. Senior Marine officers said the young lieutenant leading the platoon went beyond the distance set for him.

A survivor said the patrol's point man spotted two North Vietnamese soldiers and the platoon gave chase. The two enemy soldiers lured the Marines into the ambush, and "a whole bunch were killed in the very beginning," the survivor said.

The enemy bombardment of Khe Sanh also continued without letup, and several hundred rounds dropped into the besieged area today. Reporting of the exact number also was barred by the new security regulations.

Air activity around Khe Sanh accelerated as the monsoon weather lifted slightly. For the first time in a week U.S. fighter-bombers were able to fly strikes close to the base perimeter.

The giant B52 bombers also pounded suspected enemy gun positions and troop concentrations within three miles of Khe Sanh.

Eight Marines were killed and wounded over the weekend by the enemy shelling of Khe Sanh and a brief firefight involving a small Marine patrol south of the combat base. An American helicopter was shot down Sunday, but the crew escaped to safety.

Communist gunners also blasted Marine strongpoints along the eastern section of the demilitarized zone with more than 300 rounds of artillery, rockets and mortars Sunday. The bulk of them landed on Con Thien, but there was no immediate report of casualties.

First Raid
Over North Vietnam, meanwhile, U.S. bombers followed up their first raid of the war on Hanoi's Red River docks with their closest raid to the center of Hanoi in nearly two months Sunday.

U.S. Navy pilots used radar to fly their all-weather A6 Intruders in low through northeast monsoon clouds. The clouds kept them from assessing damage they inflicted against a railroad yard 1.7 miles northwest of the center of Hanoi and Sunday against the docks 1.8

miles south of the center of Hanoi.

The Hanoi docks reportedly handle 30 per cent of North Vietnam's inland water traffic. The railroad yard at Haiphong, last attacked Dec. 15 is on the line between the port, North Vietnam's biggest, and Hanoi.

It was the closest attack to the center of Haiphong since Jan. 4, when President Johnson banned bombing in and around Hanoi and Haiphong with word to the North Vietnamese that this was a signal of U.S. interest in opening peace talks. Johnson removed the ban slightly more than two weeks ago after the Communists' lunar new year offensive.

Some American officers said the idea in the latest attacks on North Vietnam's two major cities is to let the Communist high command know that U.S. warplanes still are around despite the monsoons. There are indications that massive air strikes are planned as soon as the monsoons ease, probably in late March, unless new peace efforts develop.

South of Da Nang, enemy ground fire brought down an American A4 Skyhawk, Marine headquarters reported. The pilot bailed out and was rescued. It was the 232nd American warplane lost in combat in South Vietnam.

Scattered fighting continued in Hue, 27 days after the Communists seized much of the city as part of the lunar new year offensive.

South Vietnamese troops captured the palace grounds of the fortified Citadel Saturday, but in mopping up operations, South Vietnamese marines reported killing 57 Viet Cong just outside the Citadel's south wall Sunday and 15 enemy soldiers inside the Citadel. One marine was killed and five wounded, headquarters said.

Westmoreland Assessment: More Troops

By ROBERT TUCKMAN

SAIGON (AP) — Gen. William C. Westmoreland says more American troops probably will be needed in Vietnam.

"With additional troops," he says, "we could more effectively deny the enemy his objective, capitalize on his recent defeats to a greater degree in both time and place, and clearly demonstrate to Hanoi our firm determination to prevent him from taking over any part of South Vietnam."

Westmoreland gave no estimate of how many more U.S. troops might be needed above the 525,000 already authorized. Some military sources estimated this may be as many as 100,000.

There are 500,000 U.S. troops here now, plus 35,000 men in 7th Fleet ships offshore and another 35,000 in Thailand at air bases from which bombing strikes are launched against North Vietnam.

Confers
Westmoreland, the U.S. commander in Vietnam, conferred over the weekend on the troop situation with Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, who was in Saigon.

Wheeler left Saigon late Sunday to return to Washington. Dispatches from Washington said a decision on whether to call up thousands of reservists is hanging fire until he gets back to the capital.

Westmoreland's views on the Vietnam situation were expressed Sunday in written answers to questions submitted by The Associated Press in which he expanded on comments voiced in a two-hour informal interview.

He said he did not believe Hanoi could stand a long war and he likened the recent Communist lunar new year—Tet—offensive to the Battle of the Bulge of World War II, in late 1944. That battle was the last major offensive by the Germans before their defeat in 1945.

Westmoreland said he underestimated the Communist infiltration tactics in their Tet offensive but said they nevertheless suffered a military defeat.

In his wide ranging replies, the 54-year-old commander also said:

—He had no reason to believe the North Vietnamese have changed their plan to attack Khe Sanh.

—The North Vietnamese had ignored the neutrality of Laos and Cambodia and used these countries to send men and munitions into South Vietnam.

—He was confident the U.S. "body count" of Communist troops killed in the war is accurate and even conservative.

—The Communist offensive put the allies temporarily on the defensive but the Communists have "run into a buzz saw."

—He saw no need to change allied strategy but the time had come for debate to end and "get on with the job."

—The Communist offensive seems to be a "go-for-broke effort" and any follow-up attack would not have the element of surprise.

—The bombing of North Vietnam has not stopped the flow of men, material and supplies to the South but it certainly has reduced the level of the flow.

—One reason the Communists launched their big offensive was that they were seriously concerned about a deterioration of morale of the Communist troops.

Compared to Bulge
"I liken the recent Tet offensive by the leadership in Hanoi to the Battle of the Bulge in World War II," Westmoreland said. "By committing a large share of his forces in a major offensive, he achieved some tactical surprise. This offensive has required us to react and to modify our plans in order to take advantage of the opportunity to inflict heavy casualties upon him."

"Although the enemy has achieved some temporary psychological advantage, he suffered a military defeat. He has paid a big price for what he has gained. The enemy has recently changed his strategy and now apparently wants to go-for-broke. The price that he has paid and will continue to pay should, in time, cause him to make another assessment. In any case, his ability to pursue a protracted war has been reduced by the losses that he has recently suffered."

Concerning Laos and Cambodia, Westmoreland said:

Sen. J. William Fulbright urges full-scale Congressional debate on any further U. S. escalation in Vietnam. Story on Page 13.

"The enemy has not used the same ground rules that we have and has ignored the neutrality of Laos and Cambodia. South-eastern Laos has been used for several years as a major line of communications for the movement of men, weapons, ammunition and supplies. It has become a defacto part of North Vietnam, since it is entirely controlled by Hanoi. The eastern border areas of Cambodia adjacent to South Vietnam are characterized by jungle-covered, unpopulated terrain. The border is ill-defined and in some areas it is under dispute. The North Vietnamese have taken advantage of this situation and have used the border areas of Cambodia for purposes of infiltration, supply, and troop rehabilitation and training. Even in the that such is not the case, I have given my personal attention to this matter and have had a number of checks made on the accuracy of our system. I am confident that the officially reported enemy killed in action figures are conservative and that any inaccuracies are more than offset by enemy deaths that we do not know about."

"Let me explain. We have set up accounting procedures that are designed to come up with the most honest and accurate count possible of enemy killed in action. Certainly, there are cases of duplication and where noncombatants have been reported as enemy casualties. This latter is particularly true of porters pressed into service who, in some cases, could be innocent civilians. However, we seldom know the number of KIA's (Killed in Action) resulting from B52, tactical air and artillery strikes. We never know how many dead the enemy is able to remove from the battlefield, we never know how many die from their wounds, and this is certain to be a substantial number. Finally, we are continually finding mass graves of enemy dead. I am convinced that these unknowns more than offset the relatively small inaccuracies of our accounting system."

In reply to another question, Westmoreland said:

"There is ample evidence that the leadership in Hanoi and the Viet Cong in the South does not hesitate to sacrifice thousands of men in order to achieve political ends. There is no evidence that this policy will change. . . . The tremendous losses during the recent offensive will have to be replaced. This is going to impose an even greater drain on the resources available to the enemy. . . . I do not believe Hanoi can hold up under a long war. The present enemy offensive attitude may indicate that Hanoi realizes this, also."

Westmoreland also said: "We have had thousands of reports over the past year that the morale of the Viet Cong was deteriorating. These came from hundreds of captured documents and thousands of interrogations of prisoners of war and defectors. One reason that the enemy launched his recent large scale offensive was that he was seriously concerned about this deterioration of morale."

Slow Down
Of U.S. bombing of North Vietnam, Westmoreland said: "No reasonable person ever expected the bombing campaign to stop infiltration of personnel and the movement of supplies to the South. . . . It has slowed the movement of men and equipment to the South and has degraded the amount of weapons, ammunition, and supplies that would otherwise have arrived in the South. It has not stopped the flow of men, material and supplies, but it certainly has reduced the level that would have been possible otherwise. The fact that the enemy has waged a concerted international propaganda campaign to stop the bombing suggests that the campaign is hurting him."

About Khe Sanh, he said: "It is conceivable that the enemy's build-up around Khe Sanh is a feint, but I do not believe that this was his intention, and I have no reason to believe at this time that his plans have changed. He can attack at any time if he is prepared to accept the casualties that would be inflicted upon him. Of course, there is always another possibility."

Apartment Project Underway At the Gov. Clinton Hotel

By JEAN F. DOLAN

Conversion of the Governor Clinton Hotel into apartments has been started as part of a plan to update the service of Kingston's largest hotel.

At the present time five apartments in the front wing are being readied for early occupancy. One of the five will serve as a model apartment. There are now several apartments in the hotel and the eventual plan calls for conversion of the entire front wing into two and three-room suites with kitchenettes. The wing on the Masonic Temple side of the edifice will be retained as quarters for transient guests to be included in the hotel affording approximately 50 rooms.

The initial conversion will cost more than $20,000 including renovation, furnishings and extensive electrical work in the entire front wing.

If the apartment program meets with approval of the public, 31 apartments will be finished within the year. All apartments will be electrically heated and air conditioned. All utilities will be included and a room telephone will be provided.

Optional features will include hotel maid service and linens. Leases will have a choice of furnished or unfurnished accommodations.

Those interested in rentals, may contact the hotel management to be added to the already sizable list of persons who have indicated their wish to be included in the hotel project.

Details of the apartment plans were outlined at the recent annual meeting of the Kingston Community Hotel Corporation. It was noted that the project is "a result of the severe competitive situation which induced the closing of a similar hotel in Schenectady recently." The historic Van Curler hotel there closed several weeks ago.

On the positive side, reports for the 1967 operation indicated the hotel was in the black for the first time since 1960. Both Accountant Alfred D. Ronder and Treasurer W. Anderson Carl expressed a hope that this trend would continue.

N. Jansen Fowler, president of the hotel corporation, said the conversion to apartments was part of a trend to fill the demand for this type of accommodations.

There will be no change in banquet, dining room or beverage service areas under the new arrangement.

More than 75 per cent of the 300 stockholders of the well-known local establishment were present for the annual meeting either in person or by proxy.

Reelected to serve for the coming year were Fowler as president; N. LeVan Haver, vice president; Alfred Schmid, secretary, and Carl, treasurer. Peter A. Black is assistant treasurer and secretary.

Other directors are Augustus Brinnier, Raymond J. Mino, Robert B. O'Reilly and Ronder. Inspectors of the election were Harry duBois Frey and John Tancredi Jr.

The popular hotel in a garden setting across from Academy Green in downtown Kingston has been a member of the Wayfarer Inns chain for the past three years and this association is expected to continue. Other mid-Hudson hotels under the Wayfarer management are Beekman Arms in Rhinebeck and Poughkeepsie Inn, Poughkeepsie.

Paul F. Coon is manager of the local hotel.

South of Da Nang, enemy ground fire brought down an American A4 Skyhawk, Marine headquarters reported. The pilot bailed out and was rescued. It was the 232nd American warplane lost in combat in South Vietnam.

Scattered fighting continued in Hue, 27 days after the Communists seized much of the city as part of the lunar new year offensive.

South Vietnamese troops captured the palace grounds of the fortified Citadel Saturday, but in mopping up operations, South Vietnamese marines reported killing 57 Viet Cong just outside the Citadel's south wall Sunday and 15 enemy soldiers inside the Citadel. One marine was killed and five wounded, headquarters said.

Westmoreland Assessment: More Troops

By ROBERT TUCKMAN

SAIGON (AP) — Gen. William C. Westmoreland says more American troops probably will be needed in Vietnam.

"With additional troops," he says, "we could more effectively deny the enemy his objective, capitalize on his recent defeats to a greater degree in both time and place, and clearly demonstrate to Hanoi our firm determination to prevent him from taking over any part of South Vietnam."

Westmoreland gave no estimate of how many more U.S. troops might be needed above the 525,000 already authorized. Some military sources estimated this may be as many as 100,000.

There are 500,000 U.S. troops here now, plus 35,000 men in 7th Fleet ships offshore and another 35,000 in Thailand at air bases from which bombing strikes are launched against North Vietnam.

Confers

Westmoreland, the U.S. commander in Vietnam, conferred over the weekend on the troop situation with Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, who was in Saigon.

Wheeler left Saigon late Sunday to return to Washington. Dispatches from Washington said a decision on whether to call up thousands of reservists is hanging fire until he gets back to the capital.

Westmoreland's views on the Vietnam situation were expressed Sunday in written answers to questions submitted by The Associated Press in which he expanded on comments voiced in a two-hour informal interview.

He said he did not believe Hanoi could stand a long war and he likened the recent Communist lunar new year—Tet—offensive to the Battle of the Bulge of World War II, in late 1944. That battle was the last major offensive by the Germans before their defeat in 1945.

Westmoreland said he underestimated the Communist infiltration tactics in their Tet offensive but said they nevertheless "suffered a military defeat."

In his wide ranging replies, the 54-year-old commander also said:

—He had no reason to believe the North Vietnamese had changed their plan to attack Khe Sanh.

—The North Vietnamese had ignored the neutrality of Laos and Cambodia and used these countries to send men and munitions into South Vietnam.

—He was confident the U.S. "body count" of Communist troops killed in the war is accurate and even conservative.

—The Communist offensive put the allies temporarily on the defensive but the Communists have "run into a buzz saw."

—He saw no need to change allied strategy but the time had come for debate to end and "get on with the job."

—The Communist offensive seems to be a "go-for-broke effort" and any follow-up attack would not have the element of surprise.

—The bombing of North Vietnam has not stopped the flow of men, material and supplies to the South but it certainly has reduced the level of the flow.

—One reason the Communists launched their big offensive was that they were seriously concerned about a deterioration of morale of the Communist troops.

Compared to Bulge

"I liken the recent Tet offensive by the leadership in Hanoi to the Battle of the Bulge in World War II," Westmoreland said. "By committing a large share of his forces in a major offensive he achieved some tactical surprise. This offensive has required us to react and to modify our plans in order to take advantage of the opportunity to inflict heavy casualties upon him."

"Although the enemy has achieved some temporary psychological advantage, he suffered a military defeat. He has paid a big price for what he has gained. The enemy has recently changed his strategy and now apparently wants to go-for-broke. The price that he has paid and will continue to pay should, in time, cause him to make another assessment. In any case, his ability to pursue a protracted war has been reduced by the losses that he has recently suffered."

Concerning Laos and Cambodia, Westmoreland said:

Sen. J. William Fulbright urges full-scale Congressional debate on any further U. S. escalation in Vietnam. Story on Page 13.

"The enemy has not used the same ground rules that we have and has ignored the neutrality of Laos and Cambodia. South-eastern Laos has been used for several years as a major line of communications for the movement of men, weapons, ammunition and supplies. It has become a de facto part of North Vietnam, since it is entirely controlled by Hanoi. The eastern border areas of Cambodia adjacent to South Vietnam are characterized by jungle-covered, unpopulated terrain. The border is ill-defined and in some areas it is under dispute. The North Vietnamese have taken advantage of this situation and have used the border areas of Cambodia for purposes of infiltration, supply, and troop rehabilitation and training. Even in the populated areas of Cambodia adjacent to South Vietnam, a smuggling operation of major proportions has been conducted to supply the Viet Cong forces with arms, ammunition and medical supplies."

Regarding the effect of the Communist offensive on the allied pacification program in South Vietnam, Westmoreland said: "It is reasonable to assume that in many areas, the program has been set back. On the other hand, in some areas we know it was untouched. In the areas where there was a setback, certainly it will take months in some instances to restore the effort to its former level, although the exact time involved depends on a number of imponderables."

Concerning destruction in cities in the Communist offensive, he said: "A large portion of the destruction, particularly the fires, was caused directly by the Viet Cong themselves, firing mortars and recoilless rifles into the cities. Second, none of the destruction would have occurred had not the Viet Cong undertaken to attack the cities."

Body Count

Regarding the allied count of Communists killed in action, Westmoreland said:

"I believe that one of the great distortions of the war has been the allegation that casualties inflicted on the enemy are padded. I can say categorically that such is not the case. I have given my personal attention to this matter and have had a number of checks made on the accuracy of our system. I am confident that the officially reported enemy killed in action figures are conservative and that any inaccuracies are more than offset by enemy deaths that we do not know about."

"Let me explain. We have set up accounting procedures that are designed to come up with the most honest and accurate count possible of enemy killed in action. Certainly, there are cases of duplication and where noncombatants have been reported as enemy casualties. This latter is particularly true of porters pressed into service who, in some cases, could be innocent civilians. However, we seldom know the number of KIA's (Killed in Action) resulting from B52 tactical air and artillery strikes. We never know how many dead the enemy is able to remove from the battlefield, we never know how many die from their wounds, and this is certain to be a substantial number. Finally, we are continually finding mass graves of enemy dead. I am convinced that these unknowns more than offset the relatively small inaccuracies of our accounting system."

In reply to another question, Westmoreland said:

"There is ample evidence that the leadership in Hanoi and the Viet Cong in the South does not hesitate to sacrifice thousands of men in order to achieve political ends. There is no evidence that this policy will change. . . . The tremendous losses during the recent offensive will have to be replaced. This is going to impose an even greater drain on the resources available to the enemy. . . . I do not believe Hanoi can hold up under a long war. The present enemy offensive attitude may indicate that Hanoi realizes this, also."

Westmoreland also said: "We have had thousands of reports over the past year that the morale of the Viet Cong was deteriorating. These came from hundreds of captured documents and thousands of interrogations of prisoners of war and defectors. One reason that the enemy launched his recent large scale offensive was that he was seriously concerned about this deterioration of morale."

Slow Down

Of U.S. bombing of North Vietnam, Westmoreland said: "No reasonable person ever expected the bombing campaign to stop infiltration of personnel and the movement of supplies to the South. . . . It has slowed the movement of men and equipment to the South and has degraded the amount of weapons, ammunition, and supplies that would otherwise have arrived in the South. It has not stopped the flow of men, material and supplies, but it certainly has reduced the level that would have been possible otherwise. The fact that the enemy has waged a concerted international propaganda campaign to stop the bombing suggests that the campaign is hurting him."

About Khe Sanh, he said: "It is conceivable that the enemy's build-up around Khe Sanh is a feint, but I do not believe that this was his intention, and I have no reason to believe at this time that his plans have changed. He can attack at any time if he is prepared to accept the casualties that would be inflicted upon him. Of course, there is always another possibility."

Apartment Project Underway At the Gov. Clinton Hotel

By JEAN F. DOLAN

Conversion of the Governor Clinton Hotel into apartments has been started as part of a plan to update the service of Kingston's largest hotel. At the present time five apartments in the front wing are being readied for early occupancy. One of the five will serve as a model apartment. There are now several apartments in the hotel and the eventual plan calls for conversion of the entire front wing into two and three-room suites with kitchenettes. The wing on the Masonic Temple side of the edifice will be retained as quarters for transient guests affording approximately 50 rooms.

The initial conversion will cost more than $20,000 including renovation, furnishings and extensive electrical work in the entire front wing.

If the apartment program meets with approval of the public, 31 apartments will be finished within the year. All apartments will be electrically heated and air conditioned. All utilities will be included and a room telephone will be provided. Optional features will include hotel maid service and linens. Leases will have a choice of furnished or unfurnished accommodations. Those interested in rentals may contact the hotel management to be added to the already sizeable list of persons who have indicated their wish to be included in the hotel project.

Details of the apartment plans were outlined at the recent annual meeting of the Kingston Community Hotel Corporation. It was noted that the project is "a result of the severe competitive situation which induced the closing of a similar hotel in Schenectady recently."

The historic Van Currier hotel there closed several weeks ago. On the positive side, reports for the 1967 operation indicated the hotel was in the black for the first time since 1960. Both Accountant Alfred D. Ronder and Treasurer W. Anderson Carl expressed a hope that this trend would continue.

N. Jansen Fowler, president of the hotel corporation, said the conversion to apartments was part of a trend to fill the demand for this type of accommodations.

There will be no change in banquet, dining room or beverage service areas under the new arrangement.

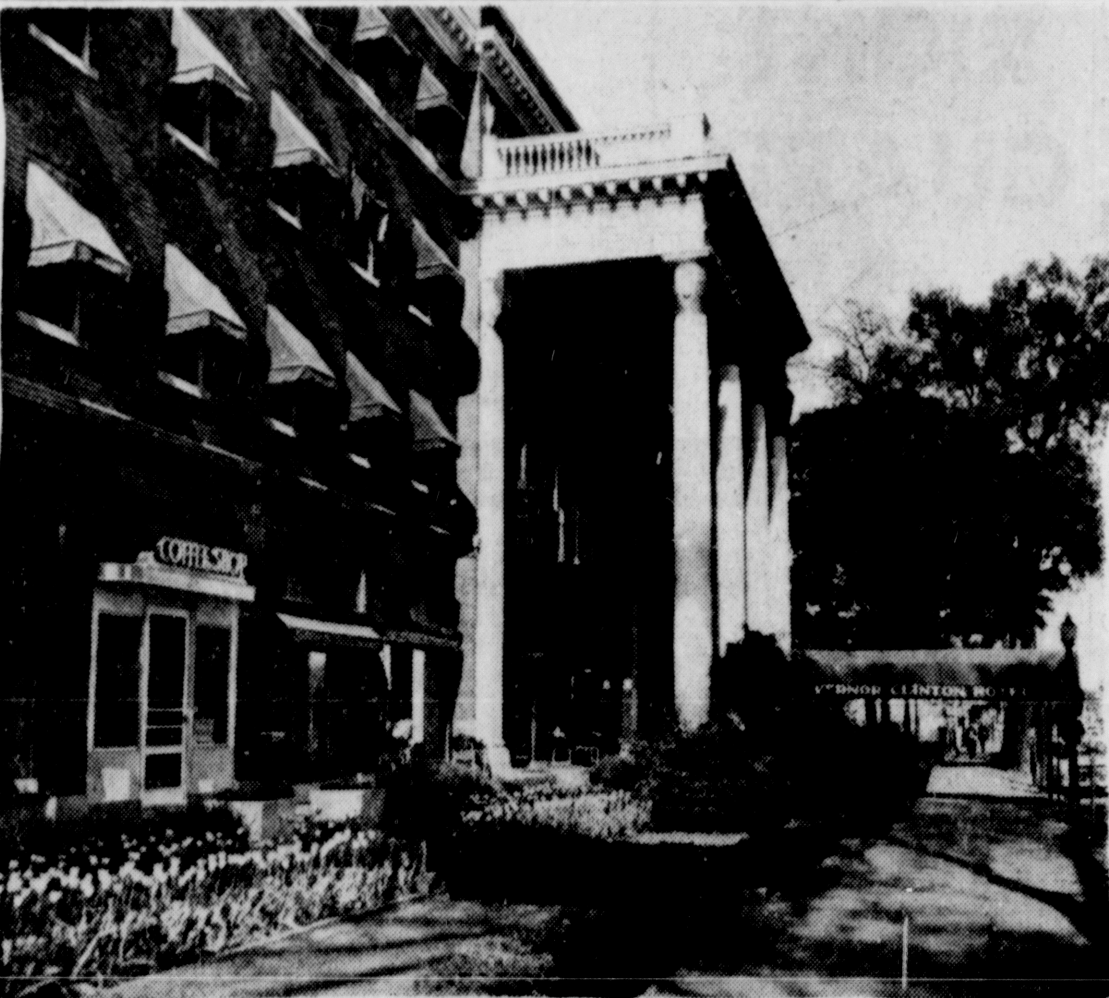

More than 75 per cent of the 300 stockholders of the well-known local establishment were present for the annual meeting either in person or by proxy.

Reelected to serve for the coming year were Fowler as president; N. LeVan Haver, vice president; Alfred Schmid, secretary; and Carl, treasurer. Peter A. Black is assistant treasurer and secretary.

Other directors are Augustus Brinnier, Raymond J. Mino, Robert B. O'Reilly and Ronder. Inspectors of the election were Harry duBois Frey and John Tancredi Jr.

The popular hotel in a garden setting across from Academy Green in downtown Kingston has been a member of the Wayfarer Inns chain for the past three years and this association is expected to continue. Other mid-Hudson hotels under the Wayfarer management are Beekman Arms in Rhinebeck and Poughkeepsie Inn, Poughkeepsie.

Paul F. Coon is manager of the local hotel.

AFL for $2.00

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — The AFL-CIO said today the new federal minimum wage of $1.60 per hour is not enough for a worker to support a family and pressed Congress anew to enact a $2 minimum.

"The AFL-CIO's objective of a $2 minimum wage can no longer be regarded as a long-range goal. It must be reached as soon as possible," said the executive council of the 14 million member labor federation.

The $1.60 minimum that went into effect this month will fatten the paychecks of more than 7 million lower paid workers by an estimated total of $2 billion a year.

Nathaniel Goldfinger, chief AFL-CIO economist, said a $2 an hour minimum would put another $6 billion a year into the pockets of workers at the bottom of the nation's wage scale. The AFL-CIO council said minimum wage hikes benefit the nation's economy because most of it flows immediately into consumer markets.

The labor leaders discounted claims by some business groups that raising the minimum wage puts some firms out of business. They cited a Labor Department study of the effects of the minimum wage hike from $1.25 to $1.40 an hour a year ago, showing that out of 700,000 newly covered firms only three plant closings involving 33 workers could be found.

"In all the covered areas, employment actually went up," a Labor Department spokesman confirmed. He said the Labor Department is conducting a similar study of the impact of the latest increase to $1.60.

Javits Target of Demos; More Due in Field: Pike

By LYNN MULVANEY

Rep. Otis Pike expects more Democratic candidates to join himself and Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick in their bid for the senatorial nomination to oppose Sen. Jacob K. Javits. He also feels the Democratic party in the state is "in a great state of flux" concerning a nominee.

Speaking at Albany's Thruway Motor Inn yesterday, Pike and Resnick both chose the GOP and Javits as targets of criticism rather than each other.

Tagging Javits "a fraud," Pike cited his Congressional absenteeism and his variety of views on Vietnam. He has been in every position there is on the war.

Earlier in the week, Resnick said the Republicans "always vote on the side of banks and money." The Democratic party, he added, "is the party of the people, all the people."

Pike has accused Javits of demanding more federal spending in New York than President Johnson had proposed and said Javits had particularly zeroed in on Suffolk County, Pike's district.

Interviewers have been known to say that Pike sounds more like a conservative Republican than a Democrat.

Resnick has announced that he will spend $3 million to be elected to the Senate if he wins the nomination and he will run in a primary if he fails to get the designation.

No Discussions

Pike, on the other hand, was non-committal on the primary saying "It depends upon how many votes I get in the committee, where they come from and what they mean."

Pike said he had not discussed his candidacy with either President Johnson or Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

When asked about financing his campaign, Pike answered, "I'm going to pray a lot . . . issues are much more important than money."

At a press conference earlier this week, Resnick said he felt Pike would drop out of the race because "he is not making any serious attempts to organize or raise money."

Industrial Event March 7

The 1968 legislative dinner of the Mid-Hudson Industrial Association will be held on Thursday, March 7, at the Holiday Inn, Fishkill, MHIA Executive Vice-President William K. Hayes has announced.

Invited guests of the association are State Senators D. Clinton Dominick III, Orange County, and Jay P. Rolison of Dutchess and Ulster Counties.

Also attending will be Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson, Ulster; Gordon Cameron, Orange; Willis H. Stephens, Dutchess and Putnam, and Victor C. Waryas of Dutchess.

Hayes emphasized that the purpose of the affair is "two-way communication, rather than a series of speeches. Industry is quite properly very concerned about proposed levels of state spending which produce a budget deficit of a half billion dollars for 1968 and create a tax crisis for New York State's already numb taxpayers."

Hayes went on to say, "And the Rockefeller compulsory health insurance, which means compulsory illness for the state's efforts to attract and hold job-producing industry, is still with us."

Association President Edwin T. Strong will preside at the dinner meeting, assisted by C. B. Schmidt II, chairman of the MHIA legislative and public affairs committee.

John J. Kuhn, special consultant to the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation, will be master of ceremonies.

Earlier in the week, Resnick too, said Javits "has had the best of two worlds" and cited his upholding both Rockefeller and Lindsay in the New York City sanitation crisis adding "He can't be right in both instances."

Speaking at the Sunday night session of the 17th Annual Political Conference of the Democratic State Committee's Women's Division, Pike and Resnick concurred on President Johnson's Vietnam policies with the Ellenville Democrat declaring the overwhelming number of people of the state hold a similar attitude.

Pike, a more conservative voter than Resnick, called for efforts to cut some spending.

Calling the middle income man, "the forgotten man" who doesn't "have too much money left at the end of the year" he add, "I don't think we can say 'more, more, more' all the time."

Of money and the GOP, Resnick said the Republicans "always vote on the side of banks and money." The Democratic party, he added, "is the party of the people, all the people." Drug Counts Charged to 4

Thruway troopers arrested two men and a woman and State Police at Rhinebeck took an 18-year-old youth in custody on charges of criminally possessing narcotics.

Troop T Troopers T. J. Kerwin and R. F. Farrand of the Newburgh detail arrested William J. Resnick, 52, of 28 Bond Street, New York City, and Diane Marie Doe, 21, of 327 East 12th Street, same city, at 4 p. m. Sunday after the car in which the two were riding was stopped near mile post 76 (north) near New Paltz.

Authorities said Resnick and the woman had in their possession a quantity of cannabis and other drugs, and hypodermic needles and syringes used in the administration of the narcotics. Arraigned before New Paltz Town Justice Rexford Schneider, both were released in bail of $1,000 each and hearing was adjourned until March 6.

Rhinebeck State Police arrested Peter Kreps, 18, of Nanuet, on a charge of criminally possessing dangerous drugs—marijuana, after the youth's car was stopped on the Taconic Parkway on Sunday. He was held for arraignment.

Troopers said Kreps was in possession of the drugs and a pipe used to smoke the narccotics. He also was charged with driving a motor vehicle while under the influence of marijuana. Troopers seized the implement and a quantity of narcotic drugs. A third charge of possessing implements to administer the drugs was lodged by troopers against Kreps.

Trooper J. W. Gallelli of the Thruway detail arrested Jefferson Davis, 18, of Berkeley, Calif., on a charge of possessing dangerous drugs—marijuana. He was stopped on the superhighway in the vicinity of Saugerties. Arraigned before Catskill Town Justice George Carl Davis pleaded guilty and paid a $25 fine. Troopers reported Davis is a student at Berkeley University.

Three UFO's Spotted in County Skies

Three Unidentified Flying Objects were spotted in the sky over Ulster County early today by State Troopers Carl Van Wagenen and John Kohland of the Kingston State Police, who were on patrol.

According to Sergeant Charles Bundschuh, the troopers were in the vicinity of Hurley when they first saw three distinct objects, colored red and green bright lights. As Van Wagenen and Kohland continued to drive they watched the lights traveling south not far apart but moving slowly.

Bundschuh said the two troopers lost sight of the UFO's but later spotted them again in the vicinity of Stone Ridge. Finally the lights disappeared from view.

Calls were made to Stewart Air Force Base but it was not determined what the objects were. The incident was reported to the local unit of the National Investigations Committee on Aerial Phenomena.

A UFO also was reported in the sky over Krumville but no details of that sighting were available.

50 Attend Viet Meeting At Area Church

More than 50 persons attended an information program on Vietnam sponsored by the Commission on Social Concerns of Trinity Methodist Church Sunday afternoon.

Guest speaker was Professor Harry Mattson, chairman of the social studies department of Ulster County Community College. He stressed the sense of urgency in the Vietnam situation saying resolution is needed for the sake of our national existence. He was pessimistic, however, as to possible solutions.

A lively question and answer period followed the formal address.

Radioactive Material?

WEST VALLEY, N.Y. (AP)—Officials of an atomic waste reprocessing plant in this southwestern New York community say they will study a charge by a Rochester group that large amounts of radioactive material are flowing into the Cattaraugus Creek watershed.

State and county officials discounted the allegation, however. Their reactions came Sunday after the Rochester Sunday Evening Star published a report that a recent sampling of effluent in the creek disclosed the presence of 30,000 times more radioactive Strontium 90 than permitted by the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) regulations.

A sampling from a tributary—Buttermilk Creek—showed the presence of 2,800 times more Strontium 90 than authorized.

Strontium 90 tends to collect in the bones when consumed in food and can lead to cancer. Contents of the report were revealed in a copyrighted story in Sunday's editions of the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

The plant, which began full operation in 1966, is operated by Nuclear Fuel Services Inc., a subsidiary of W.R. Grace & Co.

of New York City. West Valley is about 35 miles southeast of Buffalo in a dairy farming area. Dr. George G. Berg, co-author of the report and an associate professor of radiation biology and biophysics at the University of Rochester, said there was "no immediate danger" to area residents, although a long-range threat was possible.

Analysis of the effluent was made at the AEC's safety and health laboratory in New York City, he said.

The report also was critical of state and Cattaraugus County agencies responsible for monitoring the contents of Cattaraugus Creek, which flows into Lake Erie.

Spokesmen for the State Health Department and the State Atomic and Space Development Authority expressed doubt concerning the report's figures. The plant's output of radioactivity was "well within limits," they said.

Chester R. Halgas, the county's director of environmental health services, said he was dumfounded by the charge. A plant spokesman said, however, officials there would study the report to "see whether (it) may have uncovered something."

Fatal in Tannersville

By WALTER S. CLARK JR.

including fractures. He was pronounced dead at the scene. Joseph Hudes of Tannersville, Greene County Coroner Dr. Hudes of Tannersville investigated with troopers and ordered the body taken to the Greene County Memorial Hospital where an autopsy was planned to determine the cause of death.

Dr. Hudes withheld a formal verdict pending further investigation by state troopers.

Drug Counts Charged to 4

Thruway troopers arrested two men and a woman and State Police at Rhinebeck took an 18-year-old youth in custody on charges of criminally possessing narcotics.

Troop T Troopers T. J. Kerwin and R. F. Farrand of the Newburgh detail arrested William J. Resnick, 52, of 28 Bond Street, New York City, and Diane Marie Doe, 21, of 327 East 12th Street, same city, at 4 p. m. Sunday after the car in which the two were riding was stopped near mile post 76 (north) near New Paltz.

Authorities said Resnick and the woman had in their possession a quantity of cannabis and other drugs, and hypodermic needles and syringes used in the administration of the narcotics. Arraigned before New Paltz Town Justice Rexford Schneider, both were released in bail of $1,000 each and hearing was adjourned until March 6.

Rhinebeck State Police arrested Peter Kreps, 18, of Nanuet, on a charge of criminally possessing dangerous drugs—marijuana, after the youth's car was stopped on the Taconic Parkway on Sunday. He was held for arraignment.

Troopers said Kreps was in possession of the drugs and a pipe used to smoke the narcotics.

He also was charged with driving a motor vehicle while under the influence of marijuana. Troopers seized the implement and a quantity of narcotic drugs. A third charge of possessing implements to administer the drugs was lodged by troopers against Kreps.

Trooper J. W. Gallelli of the Thruway detail arrested Jefferson Davis, 18, of Berkeley, Calif., on a charge of possessing dangerous drugs—marijuana. He was stopped on the superhighway in the vicinity of Saugerties. Arraigned before Catskill Town Justice George Carl Davis pleaded guilty and paid a $25 fine. Troopers reported Davis is a student at Berkeley University.

Three UFO's Spotted in County Skies

Three Unidentified Flying Objects were spotted in the sky over Ulster County early today by State Troopers Carl Van Wagenen and John Kohland of the Kingston State Police, who were on patrol.

According to Sergeant Charles Bundschuh, the troopers were in the vicinity of Hurley when they first saw three distinct objects, colored red and green bright lights. As Van Wagenen and Kohland continued to drive they watched the lights traveling south not far apart but moving slowly.

Bundschuh said the two troopers lost sight of the UFO's but later spotted them again in the vicinity of Stone Ridge. Finally the lights disappeared from view.

Calls were made to Stewart Air Force Base but it was not determined what the objects were. The incident was reported to the local unit of the National Investigations Committee on Aerial Phenomena.

A UFO also was reported in the sky over Krumville but no details of that sighting were available.

50 Attend Viet Meeting At Area Church

Riots Aimed at Abuses

The President's Commission on Civil Disorders plans to make public on March 3 its recommendations for a crash program to deal with the conditions that breed riots in American cities. From what has been released to date of the year-long investigation into the causes of the riots in 56 cities last year, it is clear that the commission has found many contributing abuses that can be corrected.

For example, "Rioting is lawlessness and cannot be tolerated or condoned," said Earl Johnson Jr., director of the legal service of the Office of Economic Opportunity. "No one can dispute that, but we also must remember that unconscionable sales contracts, usurious interest rates and a host of other abuses which are common practices in the ghetto also represent lawlessness."

Johnson's testimony described the hidden role that flimflam merchants and salesmen had played in inciting the major riots in American cities. The proof also was impressive, Johnson pointed out that in city after city, places of business of merchants who were of honest reputation had been left undamaged. Stores of merchants who had been criticized for sharp practices were smashed and often looted.

Lawlessness breeds lawlessness. The subtle, sophisticated lawlessness of slum merchants bred the violent lawlessness of their victims. Johnson called for the "removal of this explosive powder that had been accumulating in the ghettos for decades," adding, "We cannot rely merely on catching the sparks."

New York's Mayor Lindsay, vice chairman of the commission, said that "the report will make all Americans uncomfortable." He was worried that the white and black people might be getting farther apart. He said racial calm this summer will require firmness combined with sensitivity.

However, Roger Wilkins, Justice Department director of community relations, said the nation's mayors hold the key to riot prevention. "Light a fuse under all your mayors," he urged. Get them to do something about the problems in their communities.

These are needed prescriptions. They will be spelled out in the recommendations March 3. We hope the full report will expose all the causes of the riots.

Welfare Payment Jump

Widespread complaints that the war has reduced anti-poverty action does not apply to the welfare rolls. Federal welfare payments last year took their largest jump, when 686,000 persons were added to the welfare rolls.

Last year's increase in welfare recipients more than doubled the previous year's increase and was three times the average increase over the past five years.

Acting as the advocate for the poor, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare made some interesting deductions: That the number of people on the welfare rolls is 25 per cent of the total population whose income is below the poverty level, and half the number that would be eligible under federal welfare regulations.

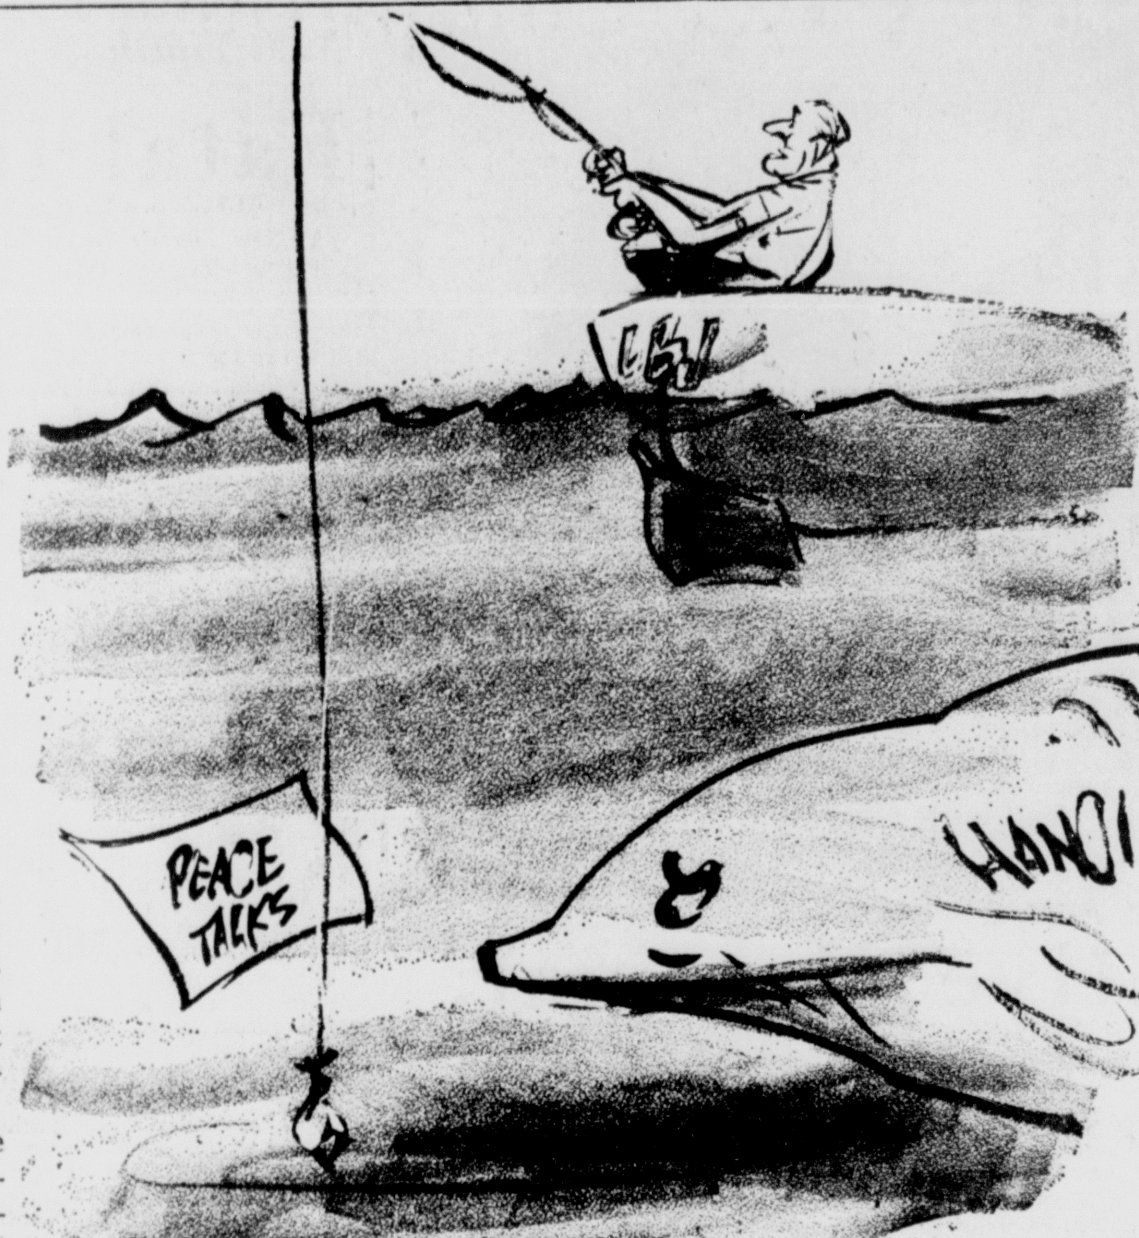

In a year of rising national income and high employment, the number of families going off welfare in 1967 decreased. Together with the increase in the rolls, the total hit a new record. Total figures were not given, but estimates indicate that about 2.5 million now are on federal welfare. If that is one-half of those eligible under federal law, that would mean that eventually 5 million persons would be on welfare. That means that every 40 person would support a welfare beneficiary in addition to themselves.

In dollars, HEW is asking $1.135 billion more in an emergency appropriation to sustain the newcomers until the end of the current fiscal year June 30. That is in addition to the regular appropriation of $4.1 billion. If that is a gauge of welfare costs, then with all eligibles on the rolls, the sum would exceed $10 billion, a pretty big tax on the nation's resources in wartime.

The Federal Aviation Agency's plan to produce a quiet jet engine in three years at a cost of $20 million was rejected by the Budget Bureau in favor of a $50 million plan to be completed in five years. The General Accounting Office has been asked to find out why. The FAA plan would have built a production engine by scaling down existing prototypes.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk, who as a young man saw Army service as an infantry officer, spared no praise in hailing the service of the Marine guards defending the American embassy in Saigon. He called them "an elite group within an elite corps." Marine embassy guards are picked men trained at the marine guard school in Washington.

The aged in New York will be able to ride a bus for a dime, half the usual fare, in non-rush-hour time, and all day Saturday, Sunday and holidays. Increased use is expected to offset revenue loss.

"Maybe a Little Bait Would Help"

David Lawrence Says

Laws About Political Contributions Ignored

WASHINGTON—Plenty of cases are brought by the Department of Justice to enforce federal laws which forbid violations of "civil rights," but the question is being raised whether, during a presidential campaign, some of the federal laws dealing with political contributions are being ignored.

All anybody has to do is to read the text of the Federal Corrupt Practices Act to note that specific penalties are stipulated for those who disregard any of its provisions. One of these states clearly that a contribution by a "corporation" or a "labor organization" is prohibited if it is connected with any federal election. The law makes this definition:

"The term 'contribution' includes a gift, subscription, loan, advance, or deposit, or money, or anything of value."

What is "anything of value" during a campaign? Does it or does it not include participation by officers of a corporation or a labor union in the setting up of committees of their own to finance political activities? The statute also says:

"Every officer or director of any corporation, or officer of any labor organization, who consents to any contribution or expenditure by the corporation or labor organization, as the case may be, and any person who accepts or receives any contribution, in violation of this section, shall be fined not more than 1,000 dollars or imprisoned not more than one year, or both."

Within the last few days the United Press International has transmitted two dispatches from which the following are excerpts: "MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 17.—The AFL-CIO executive council gathers here Monday for a 10-day summit meeting on labor's effort this year to keep Lyndon Baines Johnson in the White House. . . . The discussions will focus on preparations for next month's Washington meeting of more than 500 Federation delegates to work out the 'nuts and bolts' of labor's campaign strategy this year. . . ."

"At the moment there is a split in thinking between AFL-CIO. President George Meany and the organization's top political advisers. Meany—who has personally endorsed Johnson's re-election for more than a year and done everything but officially endorse him on the Federation's behalf—wants a campaign run on an appeal to reason. He wants to 'present the record.' . . ."

"Leaders of the Committee on Political Education (COPE), the AFL-CIO's political arm, don't feel this will be enough. These leaders are reported to be pushing Meany for permission to run an all-out 'scare' campaign, bombarding the voters, and the rank and file in particular, with the possible consequences of a Conservative victory in November. . . ."

"MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 22.—The leaders of the AFL-CIO strongly reaffirmed their support of President Johnson and his Vietnam War policy yesterday and said members would be assessed to help finance a 'get-out-the-vote' campaign to re-elect the President. . . ."

Al Zack, public relations director of the AFL-CIO, announced that the 14 million AFL-CIO members will be assessed five cents, to raise an estimated 700,000 dollars to underwrite the cost of a massive 'register and get-out-the-vote' campaign to increase labor's participation in the November election. . . ."

Since the law says that a campaign contribution includes the giving of "anything of value," it may well be wondered how an organization, even though separated from the AFL-CIO in name, can actually carry on activities of direct political assistance to either party. Certainly if the National Association of Manufacturers or the Chamber of Commerce of the United States ever announced any program of that kind and began to assess its member corporations a certain amount of money in order to "get out the vote," the Department of Justice would hardly be likely to ignore a possible violation of the Federal Corrupt Practices Act. . . ."

Problems like these are not going to be solved by any administration which benefits from such political activities, even though there may be a palatable "conflict of interest" involved. The only way the public interest really could be protected would be to separate the Department of Justice from the executive branch of the government, so that it would be an independent agency like the General Accounting Office, responsible only to the Congress. . . ."

Drew Pearson Says Senator Nelson to Resume Probe of Chloromycetin

WASHINGTON — Following revelations in this column two weeks ago that the powerful drug chloromycetin had caused deaths when doctors prescribed it for minor diseases, the office of Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., received a number of pathetic phone calls. The calls told of children who had died when given chloromycetin by erring doctors. . . ."

In all, chloromycetin is prescribed in perhaps four million cases a year when it should be prescribed only for such rare diseases as typhoid fever and Rocky Mountain spotted fever. . . ."

The reason doctors make mistakes is the wide advertising given to the drug by its manufacturers, Parke-Davis, in the first place, and the fact that warnings have never caught up with the advertising. This has been brought out during Sen. Nelson's subcommittee hearings. This week (Feb. 27) Sen. Nelson will hold further hearings. . . ."

He has already shown that Parke-Davis continued promotional activities regarding chloromycetin with the same intensity as during the initial marketing when the seriousness of the potential side effects were not fully known. . . ."

"There can be no question," testified Dr. William Dameshek, "that the continued widespread advertising of chloramphenicol (chloromycetin) and of promotional activities by detail men tend to increase the use of this drug. . . ."

He disclosed that in a suit brought against Parke-Davis and the prescribing physician by heirs of a woman who died after taking chloromycetin, the court held that Parke-Davis' heavy promotional campaign completely canceled out the written warnings. As a result, Parke-Davis was held liable for the woman's death and was ordered to pay her family $180,000. . . ."

Mistake Blamed. "No more than maybe 10 per cent of the people receiving the drug should have had it," testified Dr. Dameshek. . . ."

Dr. James Weston, state medical examiner for Utah, also testified that in almost every known case of serious blood disorders caused by chloromycetin, the antibiotic was prescribed for a condition for which it should not have been given at all. . . ."

In January 1967, the California State Medical Society and the California Department of Public Health presented a report on chloromycetin to the California legislature revealing that the risks of aplastic anemia following chloromycetin were far greater than what had been thought to be the case. . . ."

What Sen. Nelson wants to know, and will ask at the next hearing, is why the Food and Drug Administration did not vigorously notify doctors of this information. . . ."

In April 1966, a memorandum was sent to the deputy director of the Food and Drug Bureau of Medicine from the acting director of its division of antibiotic drugs urging that the FDA "take a critical second look at chloramphenicol as a 'first priority' project." The memo noted that it had been proposed in September 1965, that possible labeling readjustments of the drug be a subject for discussion by the Drug Research Board at their meeting in October 1965. . . ."

However, the discussion was dropped from the agenda. . . ."

The question is—why? Was it because of pressure from drug manufacturing interests? Sen. Nelson wants to know the answer. . . ."

He will urge the Food and Drug Administration to adopt a new policy of sending a "dear doctor" letter to the medical profession warning against chloromycetin and other dangerous drugs when they become a menace to human life. If such a letter had been sent to doctors some time ago, a good many American lives could have been saved. . . ."

Note: Doctors are so overworked these days that most of them don't have time for extensive research reading; hence the tendency to let drug company advertising outweigh drug company warnings. . . ."

The sudden dispatch of more troops to South Vietnam and LBJ's flight across the continent to say goodbye to them has brought inquiries as to when his son-in-law, Capt. Chuck Robb of the Marine Corps, is going to take off for Saigon. Chuck got in the headlines the other day attending a swank Valentine's Day dinner and dance in New York given by Mrs. Albert Lasker, featuring bouquets of orchids. However, he's scheduled to leave for Camp Pendleton, Calif., for final indoctrination on March 1, and shortly thereafter for Vietnam. . . ."

President Kennedy's alleged statement to his secretary, Evelyn Lincoln, that he would dump LBJ as Vice-President in '64 supposedly was made three days before JFK flew to Dallas and his death. This was when Johnson was urging him not to go to Dallas, that it was a political mistake. . . . It's true that the late President sometimes made impulsive statements which he didn't mean. It's probable that his brother Bobby's statement is more accurate—namely, that JFK had always planned to run again with LBJ on the ticket. . . ."

Late in the year 1963, Kennedy had reached a low ebb with Congress, critical books were getting wide circulation, and he needed Southern strength to win. Gov. Terry Sanford of North Carolina, an A-1 man, was highly unpopular in the South and probably couldn't have carried his own state. . . ."

When Mrs. Bobby Kennedy divorced she carried off among volunteer teenage chauffeurs who were to pilot the stars and celebrities around Washington for the Washington Children's fund telephone benefit, she had a hard time selling her sister-in-law, Jean Smith. Most teenagers preferred to chauffeur Carol Channing or Perry Como rather than the sister of the late President of the United States. . . ."

Henry J. Taylor Says

U. S. Security in Japan Threatened

By HENRY J. TAYLOR

The echo chamber in the Saigon news is Japan. Why don't opportunistic oversimplifiers like Senators J. William Fulbright and Robert F. Kennedy, whose conscience so often take a roller-coaster ride, hear it? . . ."

If they insist upon being that devious they should at least not be that foolish. . . ."

The United States depends on Japan to be our friend. We must read the Vietnam news as China-Japan news in its admittedly immense effect on us. . . ."

Asia is like a great human hand with 12 fingers. China is the body of the hand, while Korea, Malaysia, the Vietnam areas, the Indian peninsula, etc., are the fingers. Indonesia, an archipelago with 3,000 islands spanning a zone wider than the United States, flanks Japan, Formosa, the Philippines and Australia. . . ."

China's shadow, now Red, has flowed through all Japanese wars for centuries. . . ."

The Japanese easily understand that their ancient civilization was a decorated paper screen, too flimsy to defend them. They went to school. But Europeans and Americans did not teach Japan. Japan herself chose to learn from the West military, industrial and financial methods of organization which proved effective. . . ."

Between 1840 and 1945 one European nation after another—Japan along with them—encroached on China. But China had herself been colonizing for 2,500 years—intermarrying with others and making them Chinese. . . ."

The 1931 Mukden incident began Japan's war with China. The Tokyo high command officially predicted the war would take two weeks. It lasted 14 years. Japan invaded China, Manchuria and Formosa to get hard coal, timber, iron ore and sugar. Japan's chief interest in the Philippines was its strategic position. . . ."

Mao Tse-tung and his Red Chinese renegades sat safely on the sidelines. They refused to resist the Jap invader. Free China had suffered nearly three million casualties against Japan by the time newly equipped and unbloated Mao and his Red Chinese renegades launched their stab in the back against Free China and the free nations fighting Japan. . . ."

The Soviet Union likewise waited until we had defeated Japan before conveniently "entering" the war. While we suffered so immensely and horribly in our tremendous Pacific engagement, the Soviet contribution was to extract painlessly about a billion dollars' worth of industrial equipment from Manchuria and help arm Mao against us and against future peace. This was our bitter harvest at the hands of the Soviet Union. . . ."

While Senators Fulbright and Kennedy regularly turn color-blind on the subject of the Reds, who was it that split Korea, overran Tibet, despoiled Laos and Cambodia, invaded India and threatens Thailand? In short, the Vietnam enemy, fronting for and controlled by the major Red powers at the rear, is resisting us so ferociously in Vietnam because we want—and need—a Southeast Asia that is free. . . ."

The Red enemy is advancing in a series of concentric circles. Red China looks across and threatens the lifeline of U. S. security in Japan to a degree that such opportunistic simplifiers of our stake in Vietnam as Fulbright and Bobby Kennedy have no right to ignore. . . ."

By the World War II peace treaty Japan today is disarmed. Japan does not threaten China. But a new page in a 2,500-year history has been opened. China threatens Japan. And the psychological effect of a China that can threaten their homeland is tremendous on the Japanese. . . ."

Japan, however, is the only nation ever to experience the atom bomb. And Japan, like Western Europe, lives securely only under the umbrella of our great nuclear retaliatory force. But the ordinary Japanese share some of Gen. Charles De Gaulle's doubt that we would turn the United States into atomic rubble in defense of a foreign country if we ourselves were not under attack. . . ."

Today's anti-American street demonstrations, like earlier Japanese demonstrations, are superficial and misleading and, of course, are manipulated from Moscow and Peking. But the news of American military setbacks in Vietnam has great political effect on Japan's gnawing fears. . . ."

It is vital for us to understand our Vietnam stake in terms of Japan's own anti-Communist struggle and her confidence in her American ally. Senators Fulbright and Robert Kennedy fail to serve the national interest when they fail to point that out. . . ."

Jim Bishop: Reporter

A signal is in from Jim Sullivan, the sage of Sea Bright. A few years ago, my friend Jim owned the daffiest saloon this side of the Yukon. He had mynah birds who spoke archly: "Oh, are you a bird too?" He had a big horseshoe bar with a pool table behind it. He wore big diamonds on a wavy pinky, and he looked like a vanilla ice cream cone.

"I sure would like to be down there," he writes. "Up here you can freeze your shoelaces off." Pity him not; the varlet has survived worse. He had a Polish wife who could keep calm until she got him inside the horseshoe bar. You know those bats they use to crush ice? This woman could swing it overhand.

She departed for her reward years ago, but if she got it, it was for accuracy. She couldn't miss Sullivan even when a customer pulled the fuse. After that, some of the middle-aged fillies with the blue hair used to make a mild play for James, but mostly he kept them on the outside of the bar.

He was rolling up to Yonkers Raceway with a lady one night and he asked her casually if she had her divorce yet. She said no. "You got a picture of your husband?" he said. She said yes, in her pocketbook. "Gimme a look," he said reaching, "I hate to be slugged by a stranger."

An honest bartender died on Jim and we went to the wake together. He said a prayer over the casket and grabbed the widow by the hand. "Well," said Jim, "I gotta admit he looks better than when he was working for me." He had a pleasant surprise for the lady, "Here's his Christmas bonus," he said. She smiled and fished in her pocketbook. "Here are the keys to your saloon," she said.

The days are gone when the cops used to come in for a free belterino and then come back an hour later and arrest Jim for keeping open after hours. He sold the saloon and bought a little frame place in Atlantic Highlands and fell in love with a nice woman named Millie.

Some said he had no class, but he did. Millie used to talk about them having a big house on top of the hill, and he said sure, but he didn't buy it. Millie got sick. It was cancer. She told her friends: "I think I'm going to die. If I am, Jim knows it and he won't buy that big house." Sullivan heard the words, and put most of his life savings into the house, so that Millie never knew.

Now he lives alone with a couple of pug dogs who are so confused they don't know whether they're father and son or brother and sister. He has a job as assistant to the superintendent of Sandy Hook State Park, which sounds like a lot of title and no pay. He travels a lot—China, Japan, South Korea—although he couldn't find them on a globe if you gave him a spy glass.

In Seoul, he wrote that "I could see how they felt about us but I thought nothing of it seeing that they were foreigners. If you can parse that thought, drop me a note."

"The waitresses were not too bad and they were topless including their heads. I took three of them into town one night 20 miles away with one of their South Korean hill-billy guitar players. I was wearing my blue sports coat with my insignia from Ireland; it has two pigs and a goat with the name Sullivan sewed on big.

"There was one girl in the crowd which wasn't too bad. I promised to bring her back to the States, but the next day I was in Tokyo." He probably spread a little American good will there too. In Sullivan's honor, they closed up the geisha houses for three days.

He had a little corner in the saloon. It was in front behind a small fence and Sullivan didn't know what to do with it. So he got a portable typewriter out of a hockshop for five skins, dipped it in a bottle of gilt, called it "Bishop's corner" and told everybody that I wrote my books and newspaper column on "that solid gold—please don't touch it—typewriter."

After Millie died, he used to spend his winters at Key Marathon. He bought a little outboard and a captain's hat, but he couldn't navigate across a glass of water with a direction finder. He was short and paunchy and he told me that he boasted so many sail fish that they were becoming "common." The bum couldn't identify tuna fish in a sandwich.

At a race track he tipped the men's room attendant a fin to page him as "Senator Sullivan." It was worth it. All the bejeweled ladies in the turf club saw the snow white hair and the broad Irish kisser, and they smiled. He had his winning ticket.

I miss the Lord of Blarney. Oh, how I miss that guy...

Drew Pearson Says Senator Nelson to Resume Probe of Chloromycetin

WASHINGTON — Following revelations in this column two weeks ago that the powerful drug chloromycetin had caused deaths when doctors prescribed it for minor diseases, the office of Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., received a number of pathetic phone calls. The calls told of children who had died when given chloromycetin by erring doctors.

In all, chloromycetin is prescribed in perhaps four million cases a year when it should be prescribed only for such rare diseases as typhoid fever and Rocky Mountain spotted fever.

The reason, doctors make mistakes is the wide advertising given to the drug by its manufacturers. Parke-Davis, in the first place, and the fact that warnings have never caught up with the advertising. This has been brought out during Sen. Nelson's subcommittee hearings. This week (Feb. 27) Sen. Nelson will hold further hearings.

He has already shown that Parke-Davis continued promotional activities regarding chloromycetin with the same intensity as during the initial marketing when the seriousness of the potential side effects were not fully known.

"There can be no question," testified Dr. William Dameshek, "that the continued widespread advertising of chloramphenicol (chloromycetin) and of promotional activities by detail men tend to increase the use of this drug."

He disclosed that in a suit brought against Parke-Davis and the prescribing physician by heirs of a woman who died after taking chloromycetin, the court held that Parke-Davis' heavy promotional campaign completely canceled out the written warnings. As a result, Parke-Davis was held liable for the woman's death and was ordered to pay her family $180,000.

Misuse Blamed

"No more than maybe 10 per cent of the people receiving the drug should have had it," testified Dr. Dameshek.

Dr. James Weston, state medical examiner for Utah, also testified that in almost every known case of serious blood disorders caused by chloromycetin, the antibiotic was prescribed for a condition for which it should not have been given at all.

In January 1967, the California State Medical Society and the California Department of Public Health presented a report on chloromycetin to the California legislature revealing that the risks of aplastic anemia following chloromycetin were far greater than what had been thought to be the case.

What Sen. Nelson wants to know, and will ask at the next hearing, is why the Food and Drug Administration did not vigorously notify doctors of this information.

In April 1966, a memorandum was sent to the deputy director of the Food and Drug Bureau of Medicine from the acting director of its division of antibiotic drugs urging that the FDA "take a critical second look at chloramphenicol as a 'first priority' project." The memo noted that it had been proposed in September 1965, that possible labeling readjustments of the drug be a subject for discussion by the Drug Research Board at their meeting in October 1965.

However, the discussion was dropped from the agenda.

The question is—why? Was it because of pressure from drug manufacturing interests? Sen. Nelson wants to know the answer.

He will urge the Food and Drug Administration to adopt a new policy of sending a "dear doctor" letter to the medical profession warning against chloromycetin and other dangerous drugs when they become a menace to human life. If such a letter had been sent to doctors some time ago, a good many American lives could have been saved.

Note: Doctors are so overworked these days that most of them don't have time for extensive research reading; hence the tendency to let drug company advertising outweigh drug company warnings.

The sudden dispatch of more troops to South Vietnam and LBJ's flight across the continent to say goodbye to them has brought inquiries as to when his son-in-law, Capt. Chuck Robb of the Marine Corps, is going to take off for Saigon. Chuck got in the headlines the other day attending a swank Valentine's Day dinner and dance in New York, given by Mrs. Albert Lasker, featuring bouquets of orchids. However, he's scheduled to leave for Camp Pendleton, Calif., for final indoctrination on March 1, and shortly thereafter for Vietnam. . . . President Kennedy's alleged statement to his secretary, Evelyn Lincoln, Vice-President in 64 supposedly was made three days before JFK flew to Dallas and his death. This was when Johnson was urging him not to go to Dallas, that it was a political mistake. . . . It's true that the late President sometimes made impulsive statements which he didn't mean. It's probable that his brother Bobby's statement is more accurate—namely, that JFK had always planned to run again with LBJ on the ticket. . . . Late in the year 1963, Kennedy had reached a low ebb with Congress, critical books were getting wide circulation, and he needed Southern strength to win. Gov. Terry Sanford of North Carolina, an A-1 man, was highly unpopular in the South and probably couldn't have carried his own state. . . . When Mrs. Bobby Kennedy divvied up celebrities among volunteer teenage chauffeurs who were to pilot the stars and celebrities around Washington for the Washington Children's fund telethon benefit, she had a hard time seeing her sister-in-law, Jean Smith. Most teenagers preferred to chauffeur Carol Channing or Perry Como rather than the sister of the late President of the United States.

Henry J. Taylor Says

U. S. Security in Japan Threatened

By HENRY J. TAYLOR

The echo chamber in the Saigon news is Japan. Why don't opportunistic overspillers like Senators J. William Fulbright and Robert F. Kennedy, whose conscience so often take a roller-coaster ride, fear it?

If they insist upon being that devious they should at least not be that foolish.

The United States depends on Japan to be our friend. We must read the Vietnam news as China-Japan news in its admittedly immense effect on us.

Asia is like a great human hand with 12 fingers. China is the body of the hand, while Korea, Malaya, the Vietnam areas, the Indian peninsula, etc., are the fingers. Indonesia, an archipelago with 3,000 islands spanning a zone wider than the United States, flanks Japan, Formosa, the Philippines and Australia.

China's shadow, now Red, has flowed through all Japanese wars for centuries.

The Japanese easily understand that their ancient civilization was a decorated paper screen, too flimsy to defend them. They went to school. But Europeans and Americans did not teach Japan. Japan herself chose to learn from the West military, industrial and financial methods of organization which proved effective.

Between 1840 and 1945 one European nation after another—Japan along with them—encroached on China. But China had herself been colonizing for 2,500 years—intermarrying with others and making them Chinese.

The 1931 Mukden incident began Japan's war with China. The Tokyo high command officially predicted the war would take two weeks. It lasted 14 years. Japan invaded China, Manchuria and Formosa to get hard coal, timber, iron ore and sugar. Japan's chief interest in the Philippines was its strategic position.

Mao Tse-tung and his Red Chinese renegades sat safely on the sidelines. They refused to resist the Jap invader. Free China had suffered nearly three million casualties against Japan by the time newly equipped and unbloated Mao and his Red Chinese renegades launched their stab in the back against Free China and the free nations fighting Japan.

The Soviet Union likewise waited until we had defeated Japan before conveniently "entering" the war. While we suffered so immensely and horribly in our tremendous Pacific engagement, the Soviet contribution was to extract painlessly about a billion dollars' worth of industrial equipment from Manchuria and help arm Mao against us and against future peace. This was our bitter harvest at the hands of the Soviet Union.

While Senators Fulbright and Kennedy regularly turn color-blind on the subject of the Reds, who was it that split Korea, overran Tibet, despoiled Laos and Cambodia, invaded India and threatens Thailand? In short, the Vietnam enemy, fronting for and controlled by the major Red powers at the rear, is resisting us so ferociously in Vietnam because we want—and need—a Southeast Asia that is free.

The Red enemy is advancing in a series of concentric circles. Red China looks across and threatens the lifeline of U. S. security in Japan to a degree that such opportunistic simplifiers of our stake in Vietnam as Fulbright and Bobby Kennedy have no right to ignore.

By the World War II peace treaty Japan today is disarmed. Japan does not threaten China. But a new page in a 2,500-year history has been opened. China threatens Japan. And the psychological effect of a China that can threaten their homeland is tremendous on the Japanese.

Japan, however, is the only nation ever to experience the atom bomb. And Japan, like Western Europe, lives securely only under the umbrella of our great nuclear retaliatory force. But the ordinary Japanese share some of Gen. Charles De Gaulle's doubt that we would turn the United States into atomic rubble in defense of a foreign country if we ourselves were not under attack.

Today's anti-American street demonstrations, like earlier Japanese demonstrations, are superficial and misleading and, of course, are manipulated from Moscow and Peking. But the news of American military setbacks in Vietnam has great political effect on Japan's gnawing fears.

It is vital for us to understand our Vietnam stake in terms of Japan's own anti-Communist struggle and her confidence in her American ally. Senators Fulbright and Robert Kennedy fail to serve the national interest when they fail to point that out.

Testimonial dinners tend to be a drag, as far as we're concerned. But the one they threw for Duke Miller at Tommy's Restaurant Wednesday night will be remembered for a long time as will the guest of honor.

Some people undoubtedly asked the next day after reading about it in the Freeman, "why did they throw a testimonial dinner for a janitor?"

Duke was quite a bit more than that to his host of friends at city hall. As Tom Lyle put it, "Duke always did that something extra to make life a little easier for all of us at city hall." That included making coffee for the cops, raising the flag, coming in on his day off to catch up on his work.

Bill Kelly, the former judge, was the toastmaster, and in our opinion, is worth the price of admission any time. Kelly told the story about the time Duke was a bellhop at the Old Eagle Hotel on Main Street.

Duke's primary job was bringing water to guests, all kinds of water, ice water, warm water, scotch and water. One night, the temperature nose-dived and Duke was ordered to start a fire in the fireplace in the lobby of the hotel. Duke, as has been his habit through the years, attacked the task with vigor and quickly had a huge blaze going. No one bothered to tell the young bellhop the vents were closed and soon the smoke was billowing out.

Firemen were dispatched to the scene to find Duke tending his blaze. A fire fighter hollered to Duke, "Quick, get me some water." "What kind do you want," Duke replied. It's been a standing joke in the fire department ever since.

Duke's early years in Higginsville as a baseball player were recalled. Former police chief Bob Murphy pointed out that they used to play ball down in his section of town, too, and that the players used to change their uniforms in Bob's father's saloon at 130 Hasbrouck Avenue.

Answered the quickwitted Kelly, "Did you say the ball-players used to change their clothes in your father's saloon at 1:30 in the morning?"

Mayor Garraghan was there from start to finish, looking healthy and trim after losing 12 pounds. Ray commended Andy Murphy and his recreation department for the fine job they did on the pancake supper for senior citizens last Monday. He added that Duke would probably be a regular participant of such events and that he himself was looking forward to his senior citizen days. Ray is 61.

The party ran past 10 o'clock but no one seemed to notice. It was a true testimonial to Duke from his friends at city hall.

HALLMARKS—Ellie Bruhn off to Florida for week in the sun. June Diamond looking better than ever with platinum hair. George Radcliffe says that just because he has grey hair doesn't mean he's a senior citizen. Andy Murphy accused of eating all the pancakes at the senior citizen supper.

Police chief Francis Fagan's badge dates back to the days of Chief Hood in the 1890's. Those cops must really be underpaid. Bob Gallo going places, fast, according to Bill Kelly, his 1967 campaign manager. Kelly pointed out that Bob was an alderman on Dec. 31, alderman-at-large on Jan. 1 and acting mayor three weeks later.

Finally, optimism is one of the trademarks of the Hough-taling family. Jackie, the deputy city treasurer, maintains a bright outlook on life despite the fact that he and treasurer Stan Petro sometimes don't have enough money to buy cigarettes. Jack tells about his younger brother, Hank, who suffered severe leg wounds in Vietnam. The doctor told Hank, "There's a 30 per cent chance you might lose this leg." Hank came back with, "Yeah, and there's a 70 per cent chance you can save it. So get to work." Hank is now home, with both legs.

Maverick's Plugging Perils Romney in N.H.

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

MANCHESTER, N.H. (NEA)—There is no discernible evidence that either associates or responsible supporters of New York's Gov. Nelson Rockefeller are quietly encouraging a pro-Rockefeller group seeking votes for him in the March 12 New Hampshire primary.

As a matter of fact, indications exist that a "Rockefeller Supporters for George Romney" committee soon may be thrust on the snowy New Hampshire scene to help counter the now freely labeled maverick group.

A certain urgency has crept into the Romney camp on this issue, since here and there some straw polls—though admittedly fragmentary evidence—show Rockefeller second to Richard Nixon.

The maverick group, ostensibly led by John A. Beckett, University of New Hampshire professor, has formally filed a full slate of eight delegate candidates and eight alternates "favorable to" Rockefeller. It also hopes to spur a write-in for the governor in the primary's presidential preference test.

In a Feb. 17 meeting, Beckett and his group indicated they would not be dissuaded from their efforts, which conceivably could pose a serious new threat to the already embattled Romney as he fights uphill against Nixon.

Behind-the-scenes moves to thwart the maverick Rockefeller backers have been frequent and somewhat frenzied.

Romney people in New Hampshire not long ago placed a transoceanic telephone call to New York National Committeeman George Hinman at Grenoble, France, while he was attending the Winter Olympics. Hinman reached Rockefeller, who called Romney aides in New Hampshire to say flatly he would undertake any squelching efforts they proposed. There have been further talks with Hinman.

Firmly backing Romney, Rockefeller already had written, telegraphed and telephoned to discourage backers here, and, with most, made a face-to-face plea in a Jan. 4 visit to the state.

Some prestigious Rockefeller supporters who were with him in 1964 agreed. From several quarters, immense pressure was then levied against the Beckett group not to file a slate Feb. 10.

There are reports that several times on that final filing date the maverick group was about to yield. Word is circulating that the man who always rallied them, until they finally did file, was not Beckett but Gerald Carmen, a Manchester merchant who was a successful candidate on the Henry Cabot Lodge slate in 1964.

Not too well-remembered is the fact that Carmen twice has served as a campaign manager for former Gov. Wesley Powell, controversial figure who this time is holding formally aloof from the primary battle.

Some political figures are whispering that Carmen's leadership in the maverick group may reflect Powell's hand, the theory being that he might be trying to aid Nixon, in a detached way, by confusing the moderate camp. But Powell is noncommittal and proofs are lacking.

The big concern at Romney headquarters today is how and when to "use" Rockefeller here again to put a final quencher, if possible, on the maverick effort. Whether he will come in is unsettled.

Much depends on how much money and organizational effort the Beckett group can muster. Even without much, they figure to get 5,000 to 10,000 votes. With real money, they might get 15,000 or more.

The possible damage to a struggling Romney could be severe. And if Nixon managed to outpoll a combined Romney-Rockefeller total, the whole moderate cause for 1968 could suffer a stiff blow.

Uncle Sam's Tax Computers Getting Smarter

By PHILIP MEYER
(Chicago Daily News Service)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 21—Uncle Sam's tax computers are going to be smarter than ever this year.

Last year, the machines spat out the names of 10,000,000 taxpayers whose returns deserved a second look. Human auditors went over 3-100,000 of these returns and collected an additional $3.3 billion in unpaid taxes.

That was a record year for the auditors, and the first time they had made nationwide use of computers. This time around, with the 1967 computer experience behind them, tax men figure to do even better.

"We're always striving for improvements," is the modest explanation of George Heard, associate director of the Audit Division, Internal Revenue Service.

The computers that scan the 1967 tax returns will be equipped with an improved and debugged program, or set of instructions. Exactly what this program tells the computers to do is a secret.

If you could read the instructions on the IBM control cards in the seven IRS regional centers, you would know exactly how far you could go in cheating without much risk of getting caught.

One of every 20 tax returns gets audited. But if your return fits the computer's secret formula, the risk jumps to three-to-one.

This is an average. Among the returns chosen by the computer, some obviously are more worth the trouble of auditing than others, and IRS agents seek them out by traditional eyeball methods.

But even this element of human decision is phasing out. The service has a sophisticated research operation under way which will produce a method for the computer to rank all returns in the order of their likelihood of error. Those at the top of the list could then get looked at first.

When that program goes into operation, probably in 1969, tax agents can plan an auditing strategy that will produce the maximum return for their effort.

Canal Is Blocked

PANAMA (AP) — The out of the line of traffic. The freighter, bound from Peru to France, struck the bank more than 100 feet high at some points, slices through the Continental Divide. Work is under way to widen it to 500 feet. Even after the Shozan Maru is freed, movement of the backed-up canal locks is being overhauled, putting one of the two navigation lanes out of commission. Ships are not able to move in both directions at once in the canal. They said the cargo holds were some sections.

Certainly it was by me, and I believe likewise by the Vietnamese. The enemy will probably try this tactic again and we must give him credit for having this potential. Concerning future U.S. and allied strategy, Westmoreland said: "I do not visualize that the temporary success by the enemy in penetrating the cities will bring about a change in strategy, since the enemy did not enter the cities in military formation but infiltrated by road and byway and as a part of the migration of people during the Tet period, when traditionally families and close friends get together and celebrate. ... Basically, I see no requirement to change our strategy. Friendly forces still must find, fix, fight and destroy the enemy, and concurrently provide the necessary security to the population. However, one fact is clear as the result of the challenge posed by the recent Tet offensive: The time has come for the debating to end, for everyone to close ranks, roll up their sleeves, and get on with the job."

Canal Is Blocked

PANAMA (AP) — The grounding of a 746-foot Japanese ship loaded with 51,806 tons of iron ore midway through the Panama Canal blocked traffic both ways Sunday and may keep the 50-mile waterway closed for several days.

More than 60 ships were held up in the canal and at both ends. The Shozan Maru lay in 47 feet of water where she settled after scraping a rocky channel bank that gave her a 75-foot gash in her hull. Her deck was 12 feet above water.

Three tugs and a floating crane sought to raise the bow by pumping air into the flooded parts of the vessel. Authorities hoped this would enable tugs to move the disabled vessel out of the 300-foot-wide Gaillard Cut, the narrowest point in the channel.

If the effort fails, enough iron ore will have to be removed from the hold of the ship to permit it to be towed to a mooring.

DIED
In loving memory of my husband, our father and grandfather Richard Terpening, who passed away February 25, 1962. God took him home, it was his will. But in our hearts we love him still. His memory is as dear today. As in the hour he passed away. We often sit and think of him. When we are all alone. For memory is the only friend. That grief can call its own.

Castro Seen Moving Against Caamano

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Is Fidel Castro preparing a move against the Dominican Republic with a force led by Col. Francisco Caamano Deno, the missing leader of the 1965 revolution? This is a recurring question among Dominicans of all levels in this often-troubled Caribbean republic, Cuba's eastern neighbor. Even among some of his closest collaborators here there's almost a conviction Caamano is in Cuba and will return with a guerrilla force. Official anxiety over Col. Caamano's whereabouts reached such a peak in recent days, the Dominican armed forces reinforced vigilance and defensive measures in the northwest area closest to Haiti.

The chunky, moustached chieftain of Constitutional forces in the 1965 fighting disappeared last Oct. 24. He had been there almost a conviction Caamano is in Cuba and will return with a guerrilla force. Official anxiety over Col. Caamano's whereabouts reached such a peak in recent days, the Dominican armed forces reinforced vigilance and defensive measures in the northwest area closest to Haiti.

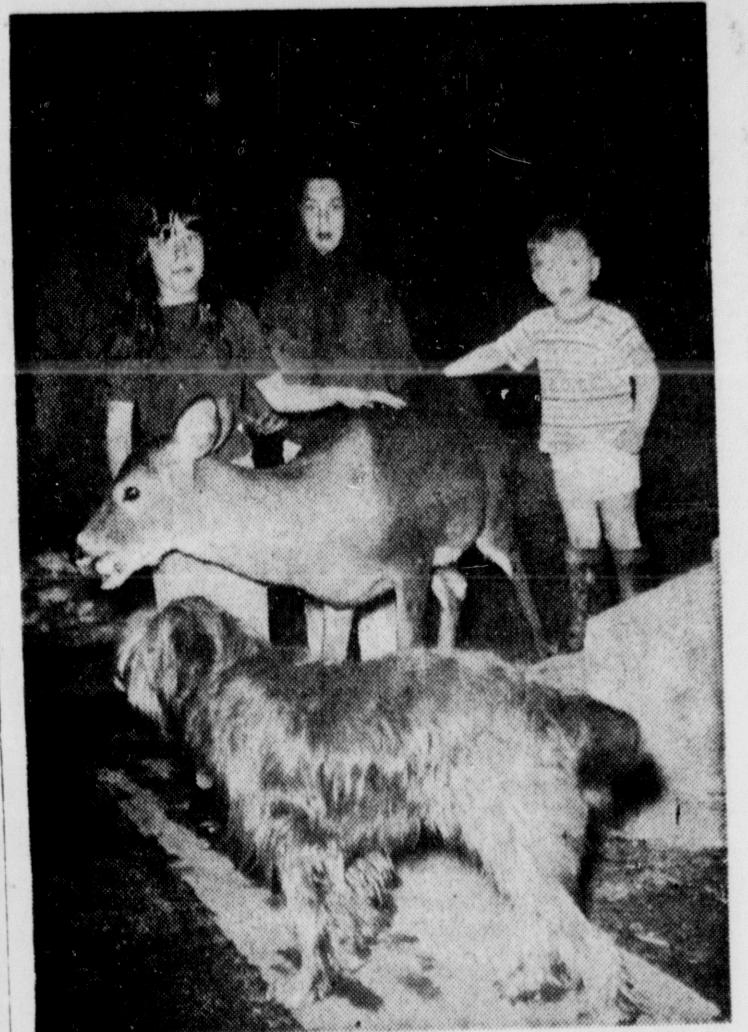

It has been learned authoritatively that Caamano will be tried in absentia as an army deserter probably within two weeks. A military tribunal could discharge him dishonorably from service and sentence him to a long prison term.

President Joaquin Balaguer said no formal action had been taken in Caamano's case because "there is no proof he disappeared voluntarily or otherwise." At the same time, the president asserted in an interview: "We are almost certain he is in Cuba preparing acts against the country."

Caamano disappeared just 15 days after the death of Ernesto Che Guevara in a Bolivian guerrilla clash. This has caused Dominicans to believe Caamano, after thorough Marxist brainwashing in Europe, was persuaded to take over Che's role as leader of Castroite penetrations into other Latin American countries.

There apparently is no firm evidence anywhere of Caamano's whereabouts, Dominican intelligence sources say investigation in Europe and Latin America has yielded nothing definite. There is little doubt, however, he is alive somewhere and that he disappeared voluntarily. Close friends say his family and wife appear unconcerned.

The disappearance has brought consternation to his former comrades in arms. One of the highest officials in the Constitutional movement said: "He has done us grave harm by not consulting us on his plans."

PET DEER IN SUNDOWN — The western Ulster County community of Sundown in Town of Denning has a pet deer which visits the post office and homes in the area. Children of the community have named him Jerry. The deer has been a pet in the community for more than a year and will be two years old this spring. Last fall he had a four-point rack and since has been wearing a collar with a bell on his neck. John P. Davenport, who took this photo caught the deer on one of his visits. With Jerry are (l-r) Suzy, 9; Jay, 10 and Jon 3, all children of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin W. Parron. The dog is King. Mrs. Parron is postmaster of Sundown.

Official anxiety over Col. Caamano's whereabouts reached such a peak in recent days, the Dominican armed forces reinforced vigilance and defensive measures in the northwest area closest to Haiti.

The chunky, moustached chieftain of Constitutional forces in the 1965 fighting disappeared last Oct. 24. He had been Dominican military attaché in London since early 1966. Under the Dominican military code, an officer absent without authorization for more than 10 days is classified as a deserter. Caamano's pay has been stopped but no other action has been taken.

It has been learned authoritatively that Caamano will be tried in absentia as an army deserter probably within two weeks. A military tribunal could dishonorably discharge him from service and sentence him to a long prison term.

President Joaquin Balaguer said no formal action had been taken in Caamano's case because "there is no proof he disappeared voluntarily or otherwise."

At the same time, the president asserted in an interview: "We are almost certain he is in Cuba preparing acts against the country."

Caamano disappeared just 15 days after the death of Ernesto

Che Guevara in a Bolivian guerrilla clash. This has caused Dominicans to believe Caamano, however, he is alive somewhere and that he disappeared voluntarily.

Close friends say his family and wife appear unconcerned. The disappearance has brought consternation to his former comrades in arms. One of the highest officials in the Communist movement said: "He has done us grave harm by not consulting us on his plans."

America has yielded nothing definite. There is little doubt, however, he is alive somewhere and that he disappeared voluntarily. Close friends say his family and wife appear unconcerned.

The disappearance has brought consternation to his former comrades in arms. One of the highest officials in the Communist movement said: "He has done us grave harm by not consulting us on his plans."

Begin Lent With Delicate Fish Dishes

By DOROTHY A. NAREL

Lent begins on February 28. But times have changed. No longer must Catholics abstain from eating meat on Fridays during Lent, with two exceptions. According to the new rules, Ash Wednesday and Good Friday are the only two days in Lent when Catholics must not indulge in meat. On all other Fridays and fast days, they are encouraged but not compelled to abstain from animal flesh.

Many Protestants, also, frequently go without meat at times during Lent.

So for Catholics and Protestants who welcome good fish recipes during the lenten season, here's an easy-to-prepare dish. It tastes equally good also to those not concerned with the season of penitence.

Lent is also traditionally a season of self denial and thus an appropriate season for dieting. Timing is right, too, for shedding winter pounds in time for Easter fashions.

The French are "magnifique" with fish!

The fine and delicate flavor of such classic dishes as lobster thermidor and sole bonne femme were created for the splendid table of Louis XIV by the famous chef, La Varenne. His methods of cooking and saucing, still a basis for transforming fish and seafood into la grande cuisine, have been perfected over the following 300 years by housewives and fishermen as well as the great chefs of France.

Short Cooking

These chefs have learned that a relatively short period of cooking time is the secret to successful preparation of fish. Heat penetrates fish in a few minutes to produce an entree which is moist and tender. The chef declares the fish "a point," or perfectly done, when it flakes easily with a fork.

Such meticulous care reflects the Gallic regard of cooking as a gracious art—to be practiced daily. During the Lenten season, when fish will be prepared in many American homes, the housewife has a wonderful opportunity to practice and perfect her culinary arts by cooking in the French way.

A skill in saucing and seasoning are the easy but essential keys to this classic cuisine. Lemon, an indispensable flavor mate for fish, is conveniently added with bottled lemon juice to both sauce and poaching liquid. Along with the great variety of fish and seafood, available in frozen form for Lent, or any time of the year, the cook has the ingredients for quick and inexpensive meals of true gourmet stature. For example, Booth ready-for-the-frozen fillets are the basis for a renowned classic dish which has inspired the following simplified adaptation.

New England Way

Handed-down seafood recipes in the homes of many Massachusetts fishing families are apt to be prefixed by such intriguing words as "peixe," "pesce," or "fiske," depending on whose home you're in. The seafood dishes and languages remind us that this "heartland of fish" has been greatly enriched by the seafarers of Portugal, Italy, and Norway, who landed here generations ago to harvest the offshore waters.

Although the modern Massachusetts fisherman might be several generations removed from the old country, the wonderful ways with fish still prevail in many households, and the old names are still used in many of the seafood recipes.

The Norwegians, who migrated in great numbers to New Bedford, know fish as "fiske." Their "Fiske Pudding" featuring flaked fish (flounder is the favorite in New Bedford) is a Norse classic prepared just like grandmother used to make it across the sea. This and other ethnic recipes have remained unchanged through the years, since many of the fish species caught by today's Massachusetts fishermen are the same as those once harvested by their grandfathers on the other side of the Atlantic.

Up in Gloucester port, where whiting is king, the Italian community has its share of "pesce" recipes. Like others having a bountiful ocean at their doorstep, Italian families enjoy fish at least four times weekly . . . and their "Whiting Piemontese" with its tomato sauce is a most enjoyable favorite. The name of this dish tells us, as do many others, the place of its origin in the Old World.

Today's seagoing descendants of Portuguese emigrants to New Bedford call fish "peixe." Adding variety to their long list of finny "peixe" dishes, Portuguese homemakers take good advantage of their port's famous shellfish—the sea scallop. Whether featuring sea or cape scallops, "Scallops Portuguese" serves as a quick and simple introduction to Massachusetts' old country seafood cookery.

Try any of these delicious recipes with the fish and shellfish harvested off the Massachusetts coast, or from the French kitchen. These dishes, originated by people who know how to get the best out of foods from the sea, have passed the test of time. Tuna Table Teasers might interest you also.

Begin Lent With Delicate Fish Dishes

Lent begins on February 28. But times have changed. No longer must Catholics abstain from eating meat on Fridays during Lent, with two exceptions. According to the new rules, Ash Wednesday and Good Friday are the only two days in Lent when Catholics must not indulge in meat. On all other Fridays and fast days, they are encouraged but not compelled to abstain from animal flesh.

Many Protestants, also, frequently go without meat at times during Lent.

So for Catholics and Protestants who welcome good fish recipes during the lenten season, here's an easy-to-prepare dish. It tastes equally good also to those not concerned with the season of penitence.

Lent is also traditionally a season of self denial and thus an appropriate season for dieting. Timing is right, too, for shedding winter pounds in time for Easter fashions.

The French are "magnifique" with fish! The fine and delicate flavor of such classic dishes as lobster thermidor and sole bonne femme were created for the splendid table of Louis XIV by the famous chef, La Varenne. His methods of cooking and saucing, still a basis for transforming fish and seafood into la grande cuisine, have been perfected over the following 300 years by housewives and fishermen as well as the great chefs of France.

Short Cooking

These chefs have learned that a relatively short period of cooking time is the secret to successful preparation of fish. Heat penetrates fish in a few minutes to produce an entree which is moist and tender. The chef declares the fish "a point," or perfectly done, when it flakes easily with a fork.

Such meticulous care reflects the Gallic regard of cooking as a gracious art—to be practiced daily. During the Lenten season, when fish will be prepared in many American homes, the housewife has a wonderful opportunity to practice and perfect her culinary arts by cooking in the French way.

A skill in saucing and seasoning are the easy but essential keys to this classic cuisine. Lemon, an indispensable flavor mate for fish, is conveniently added with bottled lemon juice to both sauce and poaching liquid. Along with the great variety of fish and seafood, available in frozen form for Lent, or any time of the year, the cook has the ingredients for quick and inexpensive meals of true gourmet stature. For example, Booth ready for the frozen fillets are the basis for a renowned classic dish which has inspired the following simplified adaption.

New England Way

Handed-down seafood recipes in the homes of many Massachusetts fishing families are apt to be prefixed by such intriguing words as "peixe," "pesce," or "fiske," depending on whose home you're in. The seafood dishes and languages remind us that this "heartland of fish" has been greatly enriched by the seafarers of Portugal, Italy, and Norway, who landed here generations ago to harvest the offshore waters.

Although the modern Massachusetts fisherman might be several generations removed from the old country, the wonderful ways with fish still prevail in many households, and the old names are still used in many of the seafood recipes.

The Norwegians, who migrated in great numbers to New Bedford, know fish as "fiske." Their "Fiske Pudding" featuring flaked fish (flounder is the favorite in New Bedford) is a Norse classic prepared just like grandmother used to make it across the sea. This and other ethnic recipes have remained unchanged through the years, since many of the fish species caught by today's Massachusetts fishermen are the same as those once harvested by their grandfathers on the other side of the Atlantic.

Up in Gloucester port, where whiting is king, the Italian community has its share of "pesce" recipes. Like others having a bountiful ocean at their doorstep, Italian families enjoy fish at least four times weekly—and their "Whiting Piemontese" with its tomato sauce is a most enjoyable favorite. The name of this dish tells us, as do many others, the place of its origin in the Old World.

Today's seagoing descendants of Portuguese emigrants to New Bedford call fish "peixe." Adding variety to their long list of fish harvested off the Massachusetts coast, or from the French kitchen. These dishes, originated by people who know how to get the best out of foods from the sea, have passed the test of time. Tuna Table Teasers might interest you also.

High-Powered Colors Put Go In Teen Fashions for Spring

Splashes of color are putting plenty of go in teen fashions for Spring. They're action colors in action fashions that have lots of snap, just what the girls want in dresses and sportswear. Now for a quick look at these "let's go" designs.

Where the action is, the pantsdress is. The swiftest one is brighter than bright in a multicolor floral print that shows up with a bang in featherweight challis made of "orlon" acrylic. Great for cycling or motorbiking.

The minidress is ready for buzzing off anywhere, given four wheels and a chassis. The color is a spotlight red in a new crepe of "orlon" and rayon that keeps pleats trim as a pin.

The knit dress, narrowly striped in red and white, stars for spring in a lightweight double-knit fabric of Dacron polyester. Definitely a winner for class hours and after.

Well-mannered voiles have many fashion talents in store for the teen group also this spring.

It's going to be voiles and more voiles when the curtain goes up on the Easter Parade. In fact even before spring is officially in, it's fun for a girl to advance the calendar and go places in a brand new dress or separates made in voile of dacron polyester and cotton.

Voiles take to prints the way teen girls take to fashion.

There are big and beautiful florals that are charming in spring dresses, while a soft-toned windowpane plaid looks very smart in a shirt and dirndl skirt outfit.

As for being well-mannered, that is the big role of voiles in addition to being lovely to look at. They behave perfectly in the wearing and washing. There's no wrinkling, nor do they go limp like the voiles of another day, and, of course, laundering is quick and easy.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I always apply a thin film of refrigerator-chilled baby oil before applying my make-up.

It prevents moisture from escaping from the surface and provides a smooth natural base for make-up.

LETTER OF THOUGHT

Dear Heloise:

I believe we should all "live and let live."

Some people are very happy to live in a clutter in their homes but there are others who want everything in place. Husbands differ, too, just the same as wives. What one man will tolerate in his wife's house-keeping, another won't.

Prudence

Dear Heloise:

If you get frustrated trying to remember just where that spot on the carpet is, try carrying a piece of white chalk with you when you are vacuuming.

Every time you see a soiled place on the rug, make a chalk circle around it and go back later to clean the spot.

Mrs. E. S.

Dear Heloise:

You might tell your readers to always use cold water to soak a baby bottle, or glass that has held milk. Later wash it in tepid water.

This will beat the age-old problem of milky-looking glasses that so many people with children have.

Mrs. Paul White

Many young mothers fill the baby bottle with hot water as soon as the baby finishes his formula. This only cooks the milk. Far better to rinse it with cold water from the faucet as soon as the baby has finished.

Springtime Fashions Are Frilly, Feminine

BY LUCIE NOEL
AP Fashion Writer

PARIS (AP) — Updating the '30 Paris fashions swing into springtime with swirling pleating, circular fullness, ruffles, flounces, frills and furbelows.

Photos of the latest Paris trends were released today. Red, white and blue leads the color spectrum. White alone is a close runnerup and is used as trimming on most spring coat-dresses, suits and costumes.

Wool crepe and wool gabardine are favorite fabrics for daytime, with organza in plain and printed versions leading for after 5 and evening.

The shirt dress, Bermuda-legged, or with a multiple or box pleated skirt, appears everywhere. Newest by Saint Laurent are in harlequin-printed silk with a contrasting navy, black or brown wool or alpaca jacket. Floppy pussy-cat bows adorn the neckline, while sleeves and suntan backs are optional for sportswear.

As for hemlines, there have been all sorts of trial balloons. But short skirts around the knees, generally above, are happily through the summer months. You may choose to drop you minis from midhigh to two to three inches above the knees, and just for fun wear a maxicoat or a maxiskirt.

Designers are concentrating on the feminine look. Fashions are seductive. Nostalgic flashbacks to the era of Marilyn Monroe, Rita Hayworth, Greta Garbo, and the stars of the silent movies and early talkies, have brought into the limelight a series of new hair styles from the tightly curled short hair to locks, and Bonnie's beret and Clyde's fedora carry out the note.

This spring season will be remembered as one of many trends. They range from Mexican and Russian folklore, the Vietnam peasant, through Spanish to the Paris gamine, Baby Doll, and honest-to-goodness modern elegance for the woman of today.

The greatest impact was made in Paris by the new coat-dresses, some with cape sleeves, others partly tailored to resemble a suit, still others more of a cape than a dress.

Fabrics play a major part in the spring collections. The most popular fabric for city wear beside wool crepe is the shantung family. Come evening, organza, in plain and printed florals, takes its place.

Prints are less violently psychodelic, jungle florals in explosive colors and true to nature. The revival of dotted and pencil-striped fabrics is significant. Dior and Courreges like naive florals on a wool ground.

Belts are on everything, mostly in leather and placed at one of the three strategic levels: below the bosom, at the natural waist or at the hipline, all depending on the style of the model.

The revival of the "Sunday night" little dress, displacing the sleeveless "nothing" sheath of past seasons, is prophetic and precious asset to anyone's wardrobe.

The spring suit is mostly on blazer or cardigan lines, mostly edged in white or if in the "classic tailored" mood, in a tweed with cutaway corners. The sequined evening suit imitates heringbone wool. Hippie-style jewelry in the "more the merrier" mood is fun.

family. Come evening, organza, in plain and printed florals, takes its place.

Prints are less violently psychodelic, jungle florals in explosive colors and true to nature. The revival of dotted and pencil-striped fabrics is significant. Dior and Courreges like naive florals on a wool ground.

Belts are on everything, mostly in leather and placed at one of the three strategic levels: below the bosom, at the natural waist or at the hipline, all depending on the style of the model.

The revival of the "Sunday night" little dress, displacing the sleeveless "nothing" sheath of past seasons, is prophetic and a precious asset to anyone's wardrobe.

The spring suit is mostly on blazer or cardigan lines, mostly edged in white or if in the "classic tailored" mood, in a tweed with cutaway corners. The sequin evening suit imitates heringbone wool. Hippie-style jewelry in the "more the merrier" mood is fun.

The Doctor's Mailbag

LET YOUR DOCTOR DECIDE ON ANY CHANGE IN DRUGS
By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.

Q—I have been taking Dyazide for high blood pressure. Would it be dangerous to discontinue these pills and take something milder?

A—The dosage of whatever drug you take for your hypertension should be adjusted to keep your blood pressure as nearly normal as possible. Your doctor is the one to decide whether to modify the present dosage or switch to another drug.

Q—I am a woman, 67. I have been taking Serpasil and Apresolin for high blood pressure. Could they cause hair to grow on my face and large white spots to appear on my arms and hands?

A—No, some other cause should be sought.

Q—Is 110/70 a normal blood pressure for a woman of 39?

A—This would be a good blood pressure for an adult of any age.

Q—Can the Cooper cryprobe be used to treat uterine fibroids?

A—This instrument, which can destroy body tissues by bringing them down to subfreezing temperature, is being used to treat a wide variety of diseases. New uses are being reported every year. Although it has been used to treat both benign and malignant tumors, I know of no cases of uterine fibroids being treated in this way—possibly because, unless these tumors cause symptoms, it is better to let them alone.

Q—Can a person be immunized against bee stings?

A—Yes. Desensitizing injections should be given in the spring to all persons known to be highly allergic to bee stings. These ten programs in each of which a high risk of series will be sold for the cost of nine.

Immunization to wasp stings is also available. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Romney Woe At Home Base

By DICK BARNES
WASHINGTON (AP)—While Gov. George Romney struggles in New Hampshire and Wisconsin to stay in the Republican presidential race, embarrassing political trouble is developing in his own backyard.

Republican conservatives who have long opposed the governor are in the midst of a well-organized campaign that could siphon eight or more Michigan delegates from Romney, forcing him to go to the Republican national convention without the unanimous endorsement of his own state.

Romney, battling to reverse his sharp downswing in national polls, can ill afford any appearance of weakness in his principal power base.

Really Discouraged
The degree of his opponents' success in Michigan will be better measured after county and district Republican conventions across the state March 27.

But a Michigan congressman who strongly supports Romney told a reporter that after hearing a report on the situation from GOP State Chairman Elly Peterson, "I was really discouraged."

"The trouble is that the extremists are working extremely hard and the moderates are only working moderately hard," said another congressman, equally committed to Romney's candidacy.

Opposition to Romney is led by Richard Durant of Grosse Pointe, chairman of the 14th Congressional District party organization in Wayne County, which includes Detroit.

Durant also heads the United Republicans of Michigan, a conservative-oriented group which, say Romney forces, has a dozen or more paid workers operating in the field.

Durant could not be reached for comment, but the extent of his activity may become evident when the United Republicans convene in Grand Rapids March 9.

"We know he's working all over the state," said Mrs. Peterson, who came to Washington to make her report to Romney supporters.

The most fertile fields for Romney opponents are in Oakland and Macomb counties, both Detroit suburbs, and in areas along the state's southern border.

At the 1964 GOP convention, eight of Michigan's 48 delegates abandoned Romney to vote for Sen. Barry Goldwater, the winner, but Romney then was only a favorite son, not the serious contender he is today.

In-Party Harassment
Through his three terms as governor arch conservatives among the Republicans have never bothered Romney significantly at the polls. But they've repeatedly harassed him within the party organization on a variety of issues.

The party hierarchy cannot shut the dissidents out of the convention delegation because each of the 19 congressional districts picks two delegates. Ten more will be selected at large at a state convention April 26-27.

Party leaders aren't worried about the loyalty of the at-large delegates, but they've already written off the two to be picked from Durant's 14th district and are worried about at least six others.

Several sources said if Romney's own bid fails, whether in the primaries or at the convention, the Michigan delegation probably will splinter and won't even be available to Romney as a bargaining tool to try and influence the selection of an alternate candidate.

Woodstock-West Hurley Leaders for YMCA Drive

Mrs. Randolph Seigel, chairman of the YMCA building fund drive for communities outside Kingston, today announced her organization for solicitation in the Woodstock-West Hurley area.

Chairman of the area is C. Robert Nicoll, 3 Maverick Terrace, Woodstock. Nicoll has enlisted 10 captains to aid him in completing coverage for funds to be used toward the construction of a brand new YMCA, to serve the entire county, at the intersection of Pine Grove Avenue and Broadway in Kingston.

Dr. Gerbarg Is President-Elect

NEW YORK — The New York State Society of Internal Medicine has elected Robert M. Kohn, M. D., of Buffalo, as president for 1968. David S. Gerbarg, of Kingston, was named president-elect.

The elections took place at the 1,000-member Society's annual Assembly of Delegates meeting, the Society recommended that the New York State Medical Assistance Act (Medicaid) be amended in order to improve the quality of care provided recipients.

Dr. Kohn said that among the internists' suggestions for improvement was the need to incorporate the Medicaid program the successful administrative features of Medicare. The establishment of co-insurance arrangements for recipients who are not on welfare subsistence was also recommended.

Further, the society, which is a federation of 14 local internal medicine societies, urged that any restrictive regulations established by local health departments which are not in conformity with state and federal legislation be rescinded.

Other officers elected at the meeting were: vice president, William C. Feich, M. D., Rye, treasurer, George R. Lovell, M. D., Rochester, (re-election), and secretary, Seymour L. Halpern, M. D., 11146 Central Park West, New York.

Elected as members of the board of directors were Doctors Charles Ressler and Clifford Spingarn, both of New York; Stanley Fishman and Monie Volkswagen's automatic stick shift. It's easier to use than it is to say.

It's quite a mouthful, isn't it? But once you get by the name, the rest is easy. There isn't a clutch pedal to contend with. And for all practical purposes, you can drive everywhere without shifting. On the highway, you shift once. (This is like an overdrive: you go faster, your engine goes slower, and your automatic bug won't turn into an automatic hog.)

And when the going gets rough (like up a ridiculously steep hill), you can shift into low. What could be simpler? One thing: the automatic stick shift is an option. So you'll have to pay a little more. But compared to other automatics, it's a bargain. Because with every automatic stick shift, we include a remarkable money-saving device: A Volkswagen.

Fulbright Urges Escalation Debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright urges a full-scale congressional debate on any further U.S. escalation in Vietnam, saying dispatch of more American troops to the war would be "a disastrous course."

The Arkansas Democrat, Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and a long-time arch critic of U.S. policy in Vietnam, said Sunday he feels the country deserves a "re-examination of the purposes, the objectives" of that policy.

Spurn Thant's Call

The president of South Vietnam and a top U.S. diplomat spurned meanwhile U.N. Secretary-General U Thant's call Saturday for an end to American bombing of North Vietnam.

In saying the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong would take military advantage of any bombing halt, President Nguyen Van Thieu predicted the enemy would grow weaker and weaker this year, and added:

"I believe this is the last year for the VC" the Communist guerrillas in South Vietnam.

Undersecretary of State William P. Bundy said North Vietnam must indicate clearly in advance that it would not take military advantage of a bombing halt.

"We just can't take this one on faith—pure and simple," said Bundy.

Fulbright was interviewed on the ABC radio-television program, "Issues and Answers," Thieu on CBS's "Face the Nation," and Bundy on NBC's "Meet the Press."

Fulbright once more said the administration hasn't proved two U.S. destroyers were attacked in the August 1964 Gulf of Tonkin incident — the reported naval engagement that led to the first U.S. bombing of North Vietnam.

And even if the ships were attacked, said the Arkansas, the U.S. military retaliation was far too harsh.

"Can you imagine how they (the North Vietnamese) look at it, having done nothing to us and then suddenly to have 64 missions with enormous tonnage dropped on you?" he asked.

Fulbright referred to 64 U.S. bombing sorties against North Vietnam launched shortly after the destroyers Maddox and Turner Joy reported being attacked by North Vietnamese torpedo boats.

Three days after the incident Fulbright—acting as floor manager—steered through the Senate the so-called Tonkin Gulf resolution authorizing the President to use "all necessary measures" to repel further aggression.

Fulbright said Sunday if he had known then what he does now he would not have supported the resolution, which won overwhelming Senate adoption.

His proposal for a full-scale Senate discussion of Vietnam policy came when he was asked about reports Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. commander in Vietnam, has requested more troops.

Sees Peking Entry

Fulbright said further escalation could bring Red China into the war.

"I think this is a disaster to the country and there is nothing we could possibly achieve commensurate with the cost," he said.

Maxwell D. Taylor, former ambassador to Saigon and one-time chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said Sunday, the Communist strategy of attacking South Vietnam's cities is doomed to failure and actually has created fresh hope for peace negotiations.

Taylor spoke at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio.

While maintaining the administration has never proved the two destroyers actually came under fire in the Gulf of Tonkin, Fulbright appeared to be shifting his criticism when he said of the reported torpedo-boat attacks:

"It really doesn't matter when they did or not. No damage was done. The (North Vietnamese) boats employed were little Swatows (patrol boats) with little 37mm guns. They had no torpedoes.

"This is immaterial, whether it did or didn't. I do say that the response was not commensurate with the provocation."

His statement were the latest in the ongoing Tonkin contro-

For Error in Timing

Q—Four years ago my broker advised me to buy Jones & Laughlin Steel at 73 and Standard Oil of N. J. at 91. I have big losses in both stocks and am very worried. My knowledge is flimsy, and I depend mostly on my broker's advice. I am single, self-supporting and somewhat dependent on these stocks for income. What should I do? —J. C.

A—I am very sorry that your broker's timing was bad, but that is always difficult and I wouldn't blame him too much. I see no reason to make changes. Jones & Laughlin is a good stock in an industry that has continued problems. I believe the dividend is secure and would hold, hoping that the share will ultimately recover. Your Jersey Standard is the world's leading oil company, but it is spread out broadly and it sometimes suffers from over-diversification, from a geographical standpoint. Price cutting in one country can reduce earnings, and if things get better there, Jersey may then run into a bad competitive situation elsewhere. The dividend appears thoroughly safe and the future looks reasonably good. Both your stocks sell to yield over five per cent, and I see no reason for you to take losses at this time.

Q—Do you think the market will ever be good again for the small investor because of fluctuations resulting from heavy fund and other institutional trading? Do you think the little fellow should try to avoid these swings by sticking to undeveloped mines and such? —B. L.

A—I think no such thing. The wide fluctuations you have seen have been mainly in the high fliers—all very high multiple stocks. The small investor should avoid undeveloped issues and stick to noncyclical companies with strong growth records, such as American Hospital. These are rarely cheap, but their pattern of price progress is excellent and they are not volatile enough to attract the swingers.

Validation Bill Passes

A companion bill to the one which validated the county's $15 million budget, one legalizing the extension of tax payments without penalty passed in the State Senate last week and now awaits the governor's signature.

The bill was approved by a strict party vote in the GOP-controlled Senate.

Attorney Sherwood E. Davis, executive assistant to Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson R.

Woodstock, said early today both bills are on the governor's desk and may have been signed during the weekend.

The validation bill will legalize the county's 1968 budget which was adopted by the old Board of Supervisors after the mandatory deadline. Because the budget was late and the mailing of tax bills was delayed, the Board of Supervisors through a Home Rule Message to the Legislature asked that the deadline for the payment of taxes without penalty be extended to Feb. 10. The regular deadline for payment is Jan. 31.

The bill validating the county budget cleared the State Senate by a strict party vote but was passed in the Assembly unanimously. The Assembly is controlled by the Democrats. The delayed budget approved Dec. 28, required validation by the State Legislature to avoid a taxpayers suit.

C-H Dividends

The Board of Directors of Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation, at the monthly meeting held at the company's South Road Office, Poughkeepsie, today declared a dividend of $1.08 1/2 per share on its 4.35 per cent cumulative preferred stock; $1.12 1/2 per share on the Company's 4 1/2 per cent cumulative preferred stock; $1.18 1/2 per share on its 4.75 per cent cumulative preferred stock and $1.24 per share on its 4.96 per cent preferred stock. Each of these dividends will be payable April 1, 1968 to holders of record March 8.

Favor Jump In the Fees

Ulster county's Magistrate Association at its February meeting adopted resolutions to support two bills pending before the State Legislature which would increase fees for city, town and village justices services in collection of fines and penalties on traffic violations paid to the State.

The bills, Intro. Nos. 418 and 408 would increase the fees from $5 to $10.

The Association feels that the city, towns and villages are entitled to the increase as it would reduce the tax burden of the residents of these communities. Patrick Mataraza, president, conducted the meeting. Daniel J. McMonagle is secretary.

Driver Charged

Accused of driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated, Harold Ross, 44, of Accord, was arrested Saturday night by Trooper A. R. Krug on the State Thruway near Catskill. He was held in $100 bail pending disposition of the charge before a Town of Coxsack justice.

UCCCC Draws Brandywine in Region XV Opener

GOING UP — With the tight defense set by George Washington's Francis Mooney (54), Steve Loveless (24) and Garland Pinkston (52) West Virginia's Dave Reaser (23) went through the center to score. (UPI TELEPHOTO.)

By MIKE HELFNER
(Freeman Sports Staff)

Ulster County Community College's basketball coach Mike Perry almost had a nightmare come true Sunday afternoon.

Perry, whose Ulster cagers enter the Region XV Tournament at Trenton, N.J. Thursday, had a dream that if Sullivan County Community College was tendered a bid, he would have to face that team in the opening round.

Perry's Ulster quintet has already met and beaten the Generals three times (twice in Mid-Hudson Conference play and once in the Suffolk Christmas Tournament).

Sunday Region XV picked the remaining five teams, filling the eight-club tourney. Until that meeting, only three teams were chosen, Mercer Community College, Robert Morris Junior College and Ulster.

Sullivan held a 14.9 record as of Saturday and had just an outside chance for a bid. The Generals upset New York City Community College Saturday night. On the strength of that victory, the Generals got a bid.

Meeting Held Sunday

Perry attended the meeting in Trenton Sunday with Sullivan's Athletic director, Roland Gray. The selection committee voted in favor of accepting Sullivan. The committee wanted to pair the Generals against Perry's Senators right off the bat.

Gray, already a three-time loser, wanted none of that as a voting member. He used what influence he could to get a different seeding, preferring to take his chances against anyone but Ulster. The Senators, instead, drew Brandywine (Del.) Junior College.

Perry is not taking Brandywine lightly. He held a practice session Sunday night at Kingston Auditorium, the Senator's home floor.

The tourney court is a regulation high school floor, measuring 85 x 50. The auditorium surface is only 74 x 56, so Perry has lined up Kate Walton Field House (same measurements as the tourney court) for two final practice sessions, Monday and Tuesday.

The Senator's leave Kingston Wednesday afternoon at 2:30. Perry has a one-hour practice scheduled on the tourney court (78) that night.

Perry, the players, and other UCCC officials will use four cars. First stop on Perry's itinerary is the Motor Inn Motel where he and his hoopers will reside.

Tourney director Howie Landa (also coach of Mercer) has scheduled eight contests. Losers in the first round are automatically eliminated. Semi-final losers then shift to the consolation bracket, doing battle for the third spot. That game is scheduled for 7 p. m. Saturday as the preliminary to the title game.

The tourney winner goes on to Hutchinson, Kan. for the national tourney. That tournament runs March 19-23 — in direct conflict with the finals of the NIT and NCAA.

Perry, who already has plane reservations and tickets to the NCAA finals in Los Angeles, said, "I'd be more than happy to give these away for a chance to get in the NCAA tourney. I want that trip to Kansas."

The Senators, seeded third, meet the sixth-seeded Brandywine club in the second of Thursday's quadruple-header. Tipoff time is 6:15.

The other matchups place top-seed Mercer (24-2) against eighth-seed Manhattan Community College. Manhattan (22-4) holds one of the two UCCC defeats, but has lost four of its last six players, dropping its last two games.

Robert Morris (No. 2), the other Senator conqueror, meets Wesley (7th ranked) Junior College of Dover, Del., and Sullivan, surprisingly No. 5, takes on Fashion Institute of Technology, the fourth-seed.

For the first time in the eight-year history of Region XV, bids were not extended to Orange County Community College or New York City. Orange lost Friday night to previously winless Dutchess, 79-70, killing whatever hopes the Colts had. NYCCC's loss to Sullivan knocked the Bee's out of the bid basket.

Brandywine carries a 16-9 season record into the tournament. Listed in the loss column is a pair of decisions to Robert Morris and a pair to Edison. Mercer also downed Brandywine as did Manhattan in an early-season meeting.

On the plus side, Brandywine made victims of Wesley, NYCCC, Baltimore, Miami-Dade North (then fifth in the nation) and a group of four-year college frosh teams.

Brandywine features a very tall club with a 6-6 center, a duo of 6-3 forwards and a 6-1 guard.

Oswego Defeats State Hawks, 77-62

Greg Wilson, the SUNYAC's leading scorer, gave New Paltz State a near-perfect demonstration of his shooting ability Saturday night, pouring in 36 points as Oswego State humbled visiting New Paltz, 77-62.

Wilson, averaging 30 points a game, chucked up 18 shots from the floor. He made 14 of those good and added a flawless 3-8 from the foul line to almost singlehandedly destroy the Hawks.

Using mostly hook shots from deep in the corners, Wilson sent Oswego out in front, 35-30, at halftime.

The overmatched Hawks could do nothing with the towering 6-foot-6 sharpshooter. In addition to his back-breaking (New Paltz broken) point total, Wilson controlled the backboards taking 19 caroms.

St. Mary's Beats Regina Coeli

St. Mary's C.Y.O. varsity stormed to a 33-17 win over Regina Coeli of Hyde Park yesterday at Hyde Park.

Vino Mapes poured in 22 points for St. Mary's and Kingston shut out the Hyde Park quintet in the final quarter. C. Roe notched 7 points for the losers.

Kingston (33) — Mapes 22, Tiano 2, Oler 7, Crowley 2, Sauters, Rice, Regina Coeli (17) — Matuk 4, Macnierny 3, McKeon 1, Fumasoli 2, Roe 7.

Warwick's Plunket captured his second sectional mark with a 52.7 time in the 100 yard freestyle. Plunket posted the sectional record in the 200 yard freestyle last year.

Coach Gabriele is hoping that his two current record holders will blaze their way to good times in the state meet, and bring Section Nine some long awaited recognition. Gabriele is hoping for a third with Maroon's relay team, and he thinks Plunket may finish in the top five.

Gruner and Murray also ran off with individual honors for the Kingston squad. Gruner blazed to 1:02.6 win in the 100 yard butterfly. Murray won the 400 yard freestyle by a full lap with a time of 4:40.6.

All Section Nine winners will swim at the State meet on March 8 and 9 at Genesee.

* Denotes Section Nine record.

Ed Shuster was the New Paltz workhorse, canning 20 markers and grabbing 18 rebounds. He had help from two teammates, Jeff Berry and Pete Kane.

Kane, averaging 15.9, added 12, while Berry, carrying a low 4.6 average, dumped in 19 on nine field goals.

Wilson was a one-man show, had nine and Walt Banovich, Oswego made it a clean sweep, taking the freshman contest, 71-57. Leading the losers was Ben Svelland with 25.

Three Changes Endorsed by Section 9

The annual Section Nine meeting at Newburgh Free Academy had to be one of the most productive meetings in recent years.

The administrators and coaches present came up with three brand new items.

The biggest news to come out of the meeting was the section's decision to make the basketball tournament an "Open Tournament."

In years past, the individual class champs would go home after taking its respective class "based on size, the four A-B-C-D." This year, the A and B winners will bump heads after the C and D winners collide.

Another first is the scheduling of a sectional playoff in baseball. Plans call for it to follow guidelines already established in basketball.

Previously, each league had its own champion. These league champs, however, did not meet each other in post season play. The new set up decides the section champ by pairing the separate league titlists (under the size classifications) against each other.

The final innovation permits Section Nine skiers to compete in the state intersectional meet. Reports indicate two or three Section Nine schools might enter this year's meet, March 9 and 10 at Lake Placid.

The section's action stems from a proposed change in state rules upping the maximum number of team meets to 18, eight more than the current limit.

League realignment and possible reorganization of the section's structure was discussed. The topic was tabled indefinitely.

The section basketball committee, headed by Kingston Coach Jack Gilligan, announced tentative dates, sites and times for the sport's tourney.

Classes A and B will hold playoffs March 5, and 15. A first round game is at Marlboro on the 5th. A special B game there might be added as the preliminary to the A clash. The final decision awaits Tuesday's meeting at Valley Central High School.

Dartmouth Wins Collegiate Ski Title Third Time

MIDDLEBURY, Vt. (AP) — Dartmouth stormed from behind and won the Eastern Intercollegiate Ski Association championship a third straight year Saturday by sweeping the first three places in the jump winding up the Middlebury Winter Carnival.

Dartmouth piled up 393.69 points, Middlebury 385.72 and Vermont 363.53 in qualifying Eastern representatives in the NCAA championships March 22-25 at Steamboat Springs, Colo.

The Big Green picked up ground on Middlebury in the morning slalom and then posted a perfect score of 100 points in the jump on a wind-blown hill.

Dartmouth's Larry Gillis won the jump with leaps of 170 and 176 feet on the 55-meter hill. Per Coucheron was second with efforts of 160 and 162 feet, and teammate Bill Cantlin third with 144 and 150.

John Greene of St. Lawrence finished fourth in the jump, edging teammate Gerry Aldrich for skimeister honors.

Little League Holds Its Second Meeting

The second 1968 meeting of the officers, managers, coaches and umpires of the Esopus Legion Little League will be held Tuesday, Feb. 27, at 7:30 p. m. in the American Legion Building, Port Ewen. Parents of Players and other adults interested in assisting the Little League this year are welcome to attend the meeting.

Bowl Time Nearing For Cats, New Mexico

By BOB GREEN

Associated Press Sports Writer

Louisville and Bowling Green are in Kentucky can make it tonight and New Mexico and Weber State are just one game away from berths in the NCAA basketball championship tourney.

Meanwhile, Dayton, Villanova and Long Island, their hopes very much alive, still wait for bids to the National Invitation Tournament as the college basketball season enters the home stretch.

And Houston, No. 1 in the nation and a stretch runner if there ever was one, warmed up for the NCAA with a record 158-81 rout of Valparaiso Saturday. The unbeaten Cougars plan to make Hardin Simmons their 20th victim of the season tonight.

UCLA, No. 2 and leading the Pacific-8, also is in action tonight, at home against Washington State. But the big one is in Lexington, Ky., where the Wildcats will try to nail down their 23rd Southeastern Conference title under Coach Adolph Rupp.

Kentucky, No. 5 with a 19-4 record, plays Auburn, 12-11, and a victory will wrap it up for the Wildcats. Kentucky clinched at least a tie for the title with a 96-83 decision over Alabama Saturday while Georgia upset ninth-ranked Vanderbilt 91-77 and Auburn edged Tennessee 53-52.

Clinches Tie

New Mexico and Weber State also clinched at least a tie in weekend action, while Louisville, behind the 22 points of Westley Unseld, beat Wichita State 98-88 for the Missouri Valley title, and Bowling Green took the Mid-American Conference title with an 84-63 triumph over Ohio University.

But the biggest noise was made by a team already assured of an NCAA berth—the Houston Cougars. Elvin Hayes tossed in 62 points in the rout of Valparaiso as the Cougars set two records. Their 158 points was the most in a major college game, as was their 74 field goals.

St. Bonaventure, ranked No. 4 and already in the NCAA, also remained unbeaten, whipping Niagara 97-84 in a Sunday game. Bob Lanier led the winners with 30 points while high-scoring Calvin Murphy of Niagara was limited to 24. Duquesne whipped Fairfield 90-67 in another Sunday affair.

Young Upsets Utah

New Mexico, No. 7, clinched at least a share of the Western Athletic Conference title by beating Arizona State 105-83 while Utah was suffering a 93-90 upset by Brigham Young. Weber State beat Idaho State 108-73 for at least a tie in the Big Sky.

The Atlantic Coast, Southern and Mid-Atlantic Conferences will determine their N.C.A.A. representatives by tournaments. Third-ranked North Carolina tops the ACC with a 12-0 conference record after beating Virginia 92-74. No. 8 Duke is next, 9-3 in the league after a 56-50 upset by South Carolina. Davidson tops the Southern Conference, 19-4 overall.

Marquette, No. 10, nipped St. John's, N.Y., 57-56 in a battle of two teams already in the NCAA, while tourney-bound Florida State and Boston College also won. Florida State took Georgia Tech 72-67 and Boston College beat Syracuse 97-74.

Dayton crushed Canisius 82-64. Villanova whipped LaSalle 64-56 and unbeaten Long Island, the No. 1 small college team, took Connecticut 64-47 to keep alive its hopes for an NIT bid.

Warwick's Third Win; Kingston Swims Fourth

Orange County's powerful Warwick Valley High School stroked to its third straight Section Nine championship, but Kingston High's Maroon swimmers took the most first places, two sectional records and racked up more points than any previous Maroon squad.

Warwick won with 297 points. Newburgh was second at 242 and Middletown third with 198. Kingston was more than 190 points behind the winner with 196 points. Fallsburgh gathered 124, Nyack 35 and Marlboro 9.

Kingston's fourth place finish was planned by Coach Ron Gabriele. Realizing that his swimmers were the individual standouts, but that he did not have enough depth to upset Warwick, Gabriele loaded the 400 yard freestyle relay with his four best swimmers in the hopes of a respectable showing in the State swimming meet in Genesee two weeks hence.

Strategy Works

Had he not done this, Kingston would most likely have finished second, though still far behind Warwick.

Charlie Plunket, Andy Jones, Gene Gruner and Craig Murray came through with flying colors for the Maroon. They swam the relay in the outstanding time of 3:40.5, a time that lowered the previous Section Nine record (3:56) by Middletown four years ago) by 16 full seconds.

Kingston took the most first places for the second consecutive year, demonstrating once again that Kingston's problem is a certain lack of depth.

Kohls Nips McCandlish 372-370 in UCAL Scoring

Greg Kohls of Roosevelt High led Arlington's famed Scott McCandlish by just two points — 372 to 370 — for the DCSL's Central Section scoring championship for the 1967-68 basketball season. Kohls finished 14 games with 372 points. McCandlish 14 with 370.

With 13 games played, Kohls was leading by two points. McCandlish scored 34 points in his league finale against Poughkeepsie, Friday night Kohls fired in 34 against Cardinal Farley.

Ulster County Community College had just demolished Rockland County and the huge crowd was pouring out of the exits at hot, steamy municipal auditorium.

A veteran observer who has been watching all types of basketball for more than 40 years, caught our eye and yelled across a noisy group:

"If this game had been close at all, we might have had a riot here tonight."

We nodded in assent.

Here was a tinderbox situation if we ever saw one. That a small scale riot didn't come off was a minor miracle in itself. This was a basketball game played in an ugly, hostile setting.

Why did it happen on a night when a large number of UCCC students and rooters turned out to see Joe Uhl, Rod Chando and company in their local swansong?

COACH HOWIE PIERSON of the Rockland team must share some of the blame. He made no effort to mask Rockland's real mission Thursday night. In so many words he bluntly told Coach Mike Perry of UCCC that he and the Rockland players were not about to remember the occasion as the night Joe Uhl and UCCC set records all over the place.

A plausible motive, we say, but in trying to achieve that goal, Coach Pierson and his boys nearly turned the game into a farce and infuriated the crowd in the process.

A slowdown, a stall, sure, it's the oldest technique in the books and sometimes it works. But when a coach instructs his players to deliberately ignore numerous shooting opportunities from 10 to 15 feet and pass out to midcourt, he then become part of a plot to turn the game into a farce.

It is our judgement that Coach Pierson simply overplayed his hand.

COACH PERRY, who has been known to lose his cool once in a while, controlled himself remarkably well under the circumstances. He gave Coach Pierson and Rockland a chance to save some face when he moved the Senators from the press to the standard zone defense.

Rockland ignored the gesture and continued to pass out away from the basket. Even when they trailed 33-9 the Rockland cagers persisted in their exasperating tactics, refusing to shoot and passing out. It was painfully obvious at this point that Rockland was not remotely interested in the possibility of an upset. They just wanted to make UCCC look as bad as possible.

Meanwhile, officials James Dunne and James Greene had considerable difficulty controlling the game. We do not suggest that they deliberately made bad calls but at no time did they seem to satisfy the tense crowd they were in full control. And once a basketball crowd as volatile as the one the other night senses the officials are not completely in charge an ugly situation results.

WE MUST CHARGE some of the spectators with demerits, too. One wise guy, who would have looked much better in some other setting, like a bathtub, maybe, charged one of the officials waving a pair of spectacles in front of his face and chewing him out disgracefully. There was no excuse for that kind of behavior.

There was no excuse, either, for anybody spitting at one of the officials. This could have cost UCCC a forfeit had it been repeated.

The ancient auditorium when jam-packed for a basketball game is a tinderbox. So long as standees on the Broadway side of the gym are permitted to crowd the boundary line of the basketball court, you can expect trouble. And two patrolmen are not enough to handle the situation.

IRONICALLY, Coach Pierson's fears about Joe Uhl were misplaced. Jumpin' Joe had probably his poorest night of the season. One the other hand the turmoil surrounding the game detracted considerably from the brilliant performance of Co-Captain Rod Chando, who poured in a career high of 31 points. He deserved a better fate.

This was hardly the kind of game UCCC needed before its Region XV debut. But they came to play and their opponents came to stall and be ornery. What followed was inevitable.

Phil Versace, the all-time bowling great from Poughkeepsie, came to town over the weekend and wrapped up the singles and all-events championships in the Kingston Bowling Association tournament.

This time around, Rose bagged 634 off 213, 214, 217 while Shlightner rolled 665 on 226, 226, 203.

In the handicap division, John Erceg, a newcomer to bowling with a 137 average, took the gross prize with a 1956 aggregate.

to take the gross doubles prize money. That enabled Kildy Corrado and Chris Gallo to win net money with their 1192.

Other repeaters in KBA doubles history were Randy Kelder and Clifton Quick in 1951 and 1953 (there was no tournament in 1952) and Larry Petersen and Chris Gallo, 1964.

Bruce (Red) Hinkley rolled high net game of 276 and Joe Fautz had 678 high series in the entire tournament.

Net team high single went to the Five Jokers with 1017. The team consisted of Hinkley, Joe Wilson, Lou Porsi, Marty Hammer and Ernie Dousharm.

Army Trounces Navy In Seven of Eight

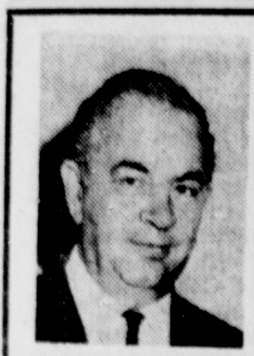

Army's Athletic teams shattered a host of records Saturday afternoon, winning seven of eight contests to dominate the weekend's annual winter meeting with navy.

The Cadets began with a narrow 5-4 squash win. Giving the Midshipmen a sample of things to come, Army romped easily in basketball, 66-44, despite the loss of star center Steve Hunt.

The only event Army lost was wrestling.

Ulster County Community College had just demolished Rockland County and the huge crowd was pouring out of the exits at hot, steamy municipal auditorium.

A veteran observer who has been watching all types of basketball for more than 40 years, caught our eye and yelled across a noisy group:

"If this game had been close at all, we might have had a riot here tonight."

We nodded in assent.

Here was a tinderbox situation if we ever saw one. That a small scale riot didn't come off was a minor miracle in itself. This was a basketball game played in an ugly, hostile setting. Why did it happen on a night when a large number of UCCC students and rooters turned out to see Joe Uhl, Rod Chando and company in their local swansong?

COACH HOWIE PIERSON of the Rockland team must share some of the blame. He made no effort to mask Rockland's real mission Thursday night. In so many words he bluntly told Coach Mike Perry of UCCC that he and the Rockland players were not about to remember the occasion as the night Joe Uhl and UCCC set records all over the place.

A plausible motive, we say, but in trying to achieve that goal, Coach Pierson and his boys nearly turned the game into a farce and infuriated the crowd in the process.

A slowdown, a stall, sure, it's the oldest technique in the books and sometimes it works. But when a coach instructs his players to deliberately ignore numerous shooting opportunities from 10 to 15 feet and pass out to midcourt, he then become part of a plot to turn the game into a farce.

It is our judgement that Coach Pierson simply overplayed his hand.

COACH PERRY, who has been known to lose his cool once in a while, controlled himself remarkably well under the circumstances. He gave Coach Pierson and Rockland a chance to save some face when he moved the Senators from the press to the standard zone defense.

Rockland ignored the gesture and continued to pass out away from the basket. Even when they trailed 33-9 the Rockland cagers persisted in their exasperating tactics, refusing to shoot and passing out. It was painfully obvious at this point that Rockland was not remotely interested in the possibility of an upset. They just wanted to make UCCC look as bad as possible.

Meanwhile, officials James Dunne and James Greene had considerable difficulty controlling the game. We do not suggest that they deliberately made bad calls but at no time did they seem to satisfy the tense crowd they were in full control. And once a basketball crowd as volatile as the one the other night senses the officials are not completely in charge an ugly situation results.

WE MUST CHARGE some of the spectators with demerits, too. One wise guy, who would have looked much better in some other setting, like a bathtub, maybe, charged one of the officials waving a pair of spectacles in front of his face and chewing him out disgracefully. There was no excuse for that kind of behavior.

There was no excuse, either, for anybody spitting at one of the officials. This could have cost UCCC a forfeit had it been repeated.

The ancient auditorium when jam-packed for a basketball game is a tinderbox. So long as standees on the Broadway side of the gym are permitted to crowd the boundary line of the basketball court, you can expect trouble. And two patrolmen are not enough to handle the situation.

IRONICALLY, Coach Pierson's fears about Joe Uhl were misplaced. Jumpin' Joe had probably his poorest night of the season. On the other hand the turmoil surrounding the game detracted considerably from the brilliant performance of Co-Captain Rod Chando, who poured in a career high of 31 points. He deserved a better fate.

This was hardly the kind of game UCCC needed before its Region XV debut. But they came to play and their opponents came to stall and be ornery. What followed was inevitable.

60-Foot Slap Shot Surprised Everyone

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rod Seiling had a little surprise for the Toronto Maple Leafs. And for himself.

Did Someone Say March 4th

KICK-OFF DATE

Selling unloaded a 60-foot slap shot midway through the third period Sunday that gave the New York Rangers the lead and sent them on the way to a 3-1 victory over the Maple Leafs. It was a long, low shot that tipped off goalie Bruce Gamble's glove.

"Was I surprised to see it go in?" said Seiling. "Yes, surprised and glad."

The victory boosted the Rangers to within one point of the Chicago Black Hawks, who are in second place in the National Hockey League's East Division. It also boosted New York's Sunday unbeaten string to 15.

In other NHL action Sunday, Pittsburgh topped Philadelphia 2-1, Oakland and Minnesota tied 3-3 and Los Angeles took St. Louis 4-2.

On Saturday, New York crushed Montreal 6-1, Toronto blanked Boston 1-0, Detroit beat Minnesota 3-1, Chicago and Los Angeles tied 3-3 and Oakland beat Pittsburgh 3-1.

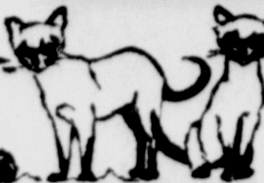

Jean Ratelle scored at 7:30 of the final period to give the Rangers their first goal and Seiling connected at 12:38. Phil Goyette scored into an open net at the last second of play.

Les Binkley's outstanding goaltending made Philadelphia's two first-period goals stand up. Binkley made 29 saves. Val Fonteyne and Andy Bathgate scored for the Penguins and Lou Angotti had the Flyers' only goal.

Willis took and Cazzie gave, and the New York Knickerbockers had a firm hold today on third place in the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division.

Willis Reed took down 26 rebounds for New York and Cazzie Russell gave the Knicks 33 points as they beat Detroit 124-115 Sunday, increasing their lead over third place Cincinnati and Baltimore to five games. Detroit is last, 5½ more games back of New York.

Comeback Win

CORLAND, N.Y. (AP) —

Cornell University scored a comeback victory in the second annual Cortland State University Ski Meet by dominating the cross-country competition.

Syracuse had held the lead at the end of Friday's races.

The Big Red combined its win in cross-country with a strong showing in the jumping events Saturday, however, to bring its point total to 378.290. Syracuse finished with 371.050 points and Army was third with 353.855.

The other teams:

Rensselaer Polytechnic, 350.254; Cortland, 326.868; LeMoyne, 320.682; Utica 257.561.

The Cadets began with a narrow 5-4 squash win. Giving the Midshipmen a sample of things to come, Army romped easily in basketball, 66-44, despite the loss of star center Steve Hunt.

The only event Army lost was wrestling.

The basketball contest was the sweetest win. Hunt, out for the remainder of the NIT because of mononucleosis, watched the game on TV from his infirmary bed.

He witnessed the Cadets rack up their 19th win this year, the most by any Army squad in regular season play. The win also evened the series at 22-22.

It was Hunt's replacement, Dick Simmons, that stole the spotlight.

Simmons, a 6-foot-6 junior, has been used sparingly by the Cadet's coach, Bob Knight.

Great Opportunist

Unimpressive as a Pelebe and equally unimpressive in his two varsity seasons so far, Simmons made the most of his opportunity as a starter.

The husky, Chico, Calif. native dumped in 16 points, hitting 6 of 10 shots with a perfect 4-4 from the foul line. Many were key buckets, setting off Army spurges.

Simmons, enjoying the "instant stardom for the underdog" role, also hauled down 16 rebounds, giving Army a 44-32 edge off the boards.

The score was tied several times in the early going, but an 11-2 Army spurt made it 20-12 with 6:11 to go. Navy never threatened very seriously again, get closer than three points thereafter.

Reed added 20 points for New York. Jimmy Walker and Harry Hairston scored 23 each for the Pistons, whose coach, Donnis Butcher, was ejected for the fifth time this season.

Wilt Chamberlain and Hal Greer helped Philadelphia clinch its victory by combining for 24 last-period points. Greer finished with 32 points and Chamberlain 31. Joe Caldwell scored 24 and Paul Silas 23 for St. Louis.

Los Angeles went into its game without guard Jerry West, who has a groin injury, but Elgin Baylor didn't give San Diego any time to rejoice. Caution Flags Fail To Stop Yarborough

By F.T. MacFEELY
DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — "We'll learn how to handle these speeds," predicted Cale Yarborough, after winning his second straight major race on the banked asphalt track at Daytona International Speedway where high velocity qualifying turned into low key racing for the second year in a row.

It was obvious from the 58 caution laps that the nation's best stock car drivers didn't have things under control in Sunday's $200,000 Daytona 500.

The record crowd of 94,800 saw the survivors regroup behind the caution at slow speed for more than one-fourth of the race as a series of accidents eliminated all but 22 of the 50 starters.

The crowd's compensation for patience was a sensational finish in which Yarborough passed his Mercury Cyclone teammate, Lee Roy Yarborough, of Columbia, S.C., three laps from home and took the checkered flag less than one second in front.

Bobby Allison of Hueytown, Ala., and David Pearson of Spartanburg, S.C., made it a great day for Ford-Mercury when they finished third and fourth in a pair of Ford Torinos.

The next four places went to Paul Goldsmith of Munster, Ind., and Darrel Dieringer of Charlotte in Plymouths, Al Unser of Albuquerque, N.M., in a Dodge and Richard Petty of Randleman, N.C., in a Plymouth.

Tiny Lund of Cross, S.C., was ninth in a Mercury and Andy Hampton of Louisville, Ky., 10th in a Dodge.

WINCHESTER, Mass. (AP) — sweep all four major championships — Billie Jean King, the undisputed queen of world tennis who needs a mansion-size trophy case to display all her awards, is all for making money, but she's undecided on a pro career.

Billie Jean indicated her heart is with the pros but a burning ambition is keeping her an amateur after she became the second player Sunday to win the U.S. National indoor title three straight years.

Air Force Teams Rule in Bobsled

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — Air Force teams flashed to victory in both the two-man and four-man National AAU senior Bobsled Championships at nearby Mt. van Hoevenberg by posting the best cumulative times.

The fastest mile times in a single heat were recorded, however, by the four-man team piloted by Fred Fortune of Lake Placid and the two-man team of Paul Lamey and Bob Husher of the U.S. Navy.

Les Fenner piloted the winning Air Force team that put together a combined time of 4:32.26 for four runs.

Fortune's team, representing the Cleveland, Ohio, Bobsled Club, posted a single-heat time of 1:06.93 to highlight Saturday's competition.

Over-all, the Cleveland team placed second, with a total time of 4:33.50, and the Saranac Lake Club piloted by Harold Webb was third in 4:36.12.

The two-man races were held Sunday.

The Air Force bobsledders — Gary Sheffield and Howard Siler — completed their four runs in 4:40.71 to defeat Lamey and Husher, whose total time was 4:46.32.

But the Lamey-Husher team had the single fastest run of the day — 1:09.02.

Charles McDonald and John Handy of the Malone Bobsled Club placed third in 4:49.28.

GOTEBORG, Sweden (AP) — Fred Anton Maier is the world speed skating champion after zooming from fifth place in the over-all standings with a record-setting performance in the 10,000-meter race Sunday, final event on the four-race schedule.

Maier, 29, streaked around the course in 15 minutes, 26.3 seconds, beating Kees Verkerk, defending champion from The Netherlands, by 29 seconds.

Maier's performance gave him a four-race total of 176.340 time points, a world record for over-all points.

Magne Tomassen of Norway took second place and the silver medal and another Dutch skater, Ard Schenk, finished third.

Verkerk, winner for two straight years, finished fourth.

Two Americans, Richie Wurster of Ballston Spa, N.Y., and Neil Blatchford of Northbrook, Ill., failed to qualify for the final race and therefore were not ranked in the final standings.

Wurster, who was 24th after Saturday's 500 and 5,000 races, finished 23rd in Sunday's first race, the 1,500, and Blatchford, 27th at the halfway point, tied for 24th. Only the first 16 in the 1,500 qualified for the 10,000.

Knudson Completes Sweep, Adds Tucson

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The Grand Canyon took a back seat today to Canada's George Knudson, winner of the $100,000 Tucson Open golf tournament and Arizona's newfound attraction.

Knudson, nervous, chain-smoking veteran from Toronto, charged from the pack Sunday to win the $20,000 top money in Tucson, a week after pocketing the same amount for his Phoenix Open victory.

"It was a great round, just a great round," said Knudson of his 7-under par 65, which gave him a 72-hole score of 15-under 27 and a one-stroke triumph over Frank Beard and Frank Boynton.

The 155-pound Knudson, who says a weight lifting program has given him added strength, proved his point when he wrecked the final nine holes of the 7,200-yard, par-72 Tucson National golf course.

After two birdies on the front side, he rolled in five birdie putts on the final nine holes, ranging from one foot to a curving 5-footer on No. 13.

Dale Douglass, Denver, Colo., a second round co-leader, needed a birdie on the 18th hole to tie Knudson. He found a trap with his approach shot on the 465-yard, par-4 hole and ended with a bogey 5.

Beard tied Boynton, Cleveland, for second at 274, after a final round of 67. Boynton had a 35-32-67 Sunday. Each man picked up $9,750.

Magne Tomassen of Norway took second place and the silver medal and another Dutch skater, Ard Schenk, finished third. Verkerk, winner for two straight years, finished fourth.

Two Americans, Richie Wurster of Ballston Spa, N.Y., and Neil Blatchford of Northbrook, Ill., failed to qualify for the final race and therefore were not ranked in the final standings.

Wurster, who was 24th after Saturday's 500 and 5,000 races, finished 23rd in Sunday's first race, the 1,500, and Blatchford, 27th at the halfway point, tied for 24th. Only the first 16 in the 1,500 qualified for the 10,000.

LOAF OF BREAD and the bottle of wine is there for George Knudson of Toronto, Canada, shown sweating it out in press room after posting 15 under par in the Tucson Open. The score held up and Knudson was rewarded with a $20,000 check, his second straight on the winter tour. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Knudson Completes Sweep, Adds Tuscon

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The

Grand Canyon took a back seat today to Canada's George Knudson, winner of the $100,000 Tucson Open golf tournament and Arizona's newfound attraction.

Knudson, nervous, chain-smoking veteran from Toronto, charged from the pack Sunday to win the $20,000 top money in Tucson, a week after pocketing the same amount for his Phoenix Open victory.

"It was a great round, just a great round," said Knudson of his 7-under-par 65, which gave him a 72-hole score of 15-under 27 and a one-stroke triumph over Frank Beard and Frank Boynton.

The 155-pound Knudson, who says a weight lifting program has given him added strength, proved his point when he wrecked the final nine holes of the 7,300-yard, par-72 Tucson National golf course.

After two birdies on the front side, he rolled in five birdie putts on the final nine holes, ranging from one foot to a curving 5-footer on No. 13.

Dale Douglass, Denver, Colo., a second round co-leader, needed a birdie on the 18th hole to

Dear Abby

Some Wives Have True Love

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: Three years ago I left my husband for a man I loved. And yes, I have children, but I put my love for him before my children.

We have had many fun times together since then, but I have never quite gotten him to make the break with his wife.

He says he loves me and does not love her, but he cannot leave his children. Abby, I left my children for him.

His wife must be the world's biggest fool because she found out about us, and forgave him. He came right back to me, tho, which proves he really loves me.

What can I do now, Abby? I gave up everything for this man. I can't see why he won't give up a loveless marriage for me. Why does his wife stand in the way of our love?

SOUTHERN BELLE

DEAR SOUTHERN: Maybe she loves and prays that this is just a foolish fling from which he will recover.

And maybe she has put her love for her children before everything else. Some women do, you know.

DEAR ABBY: My dear mother passed away nearly two years ago and on her death-bed she told me she wanted me to have her lovely diamond ring, and my sister to have her small emerald ring. Our father was right there, and he heard her say it.

Well, before Mother had been gone a year, Dad gave the emerald ring to a "lady friend." It was a brief encounter and nothing came of it. The "lady" soon disappeared, and with her went the ring.

Now our father tells me he is planning to give the diamond to still another "lady friend." I am broken-hearted, Abby. Does he have the right to do this? It would be a public scandal to take him to court over something like this, but that ring belongs to me. It's not the value of the ring, but the sentiment, that's important. Is there some way to keep him from giving away the diamond my mother meant for me?

BROKENHEARTED

DEAR BROKENHEARTED: Talk to a lawyer. He can tell you whether you are LEGALLY BROKENHEARTED.

DEAR ABBY: If you think grown men don't cry, you should have seen me as I read that letter in your column from the father who was so strict with his young son that the boy's self-confidence was destroyed and made of him a high school drop-out and a runaway kid.

I'm just as guilty as that father—only in a slightly different way. It seems I ways always "too busy" to spend time with my son. This I deeply regret now.

It's too bad more fathers don't realize that the opportunity to be close to their children is theirs for just a few short years. Then it is gone forever. If this letter helps to bring a few guys to their senses, it will have been worthwhile.

GRATEFUL TO ABBY

CONFIDENTIAL TO ANNIE IN WAYCROSS, GA.: Add a "P. S." to those year-old thank-you notes you forgot to mail, and apologize for your tardiness. Also shamefully late, they are better than no thank-you notes at all.

OFFICE CAT

Alexander H. Stevens, Senator from Georgia and later Vice-President of the Confederacy, was the smallest man in the Senate, weighing less than eighty pounds, and standing less than five feet high. A huge Western Congressman once frothed at the mouth, seeking to answer him.

Congressman Wall—You! You! Why, I could swallow you, and never know I'd eat a thing!

Senator Stevens—In that case, you'd have more brains in your belly than you ever had in your head.

Progress is the activity of today and the assurance of tomorrow.

John Cayce, a dub golfing friend of ours, was playing a short hole. Taking a full swing he fairly clobbered the ball. It hit a tree, bounced off and hit another tree, then it ricocheted on to a rock and finally landed on the green, about three inches from the hole.

John (disgusted)—Damn! Why didn't I hit it just a little harder?

Rain is something that makes flowers grow and taxicabs disappear.

At a modern art exhibition, first prize in sculpture went to a curiously shaped form bearing the sign, "The sculptress shaped this entirely with her tongue!"

Someone questioned the exhibitor:

Mrs. Jones—Who is this talented sculptress?

Mr. Jackson (the exhibitor)—My cow. That's her salt block.

Mr. Green (pointed out to the guest as they rode by)—That's the home of our representative in the legislature.

Mr. Gay (the visitor)—An ornate pile. What is it made of?

Mr. Green—Can't give you all the materials, but it is composed of a great many 'ayes' and 'noes' went into its construction.

Self-respect is the compensation you receive for respecting the rights of others. In a battle of words no heads get broken but hearts and lives do.

Three men and a dog were having cocktails at a bar. The dog was on a chair, handling his glass in a fashion even Emily Post would approve.

Tom (the bartender)—That's some dog. He's almost human.

Tim (the dog owner)—Brother, you can say that again. Wait until you see him get out of paying for the next round.

On the way to the office of his publishers one crisp fall morning, James Whitcomb Riley met an unusually large number of acquaintances who commented conventionally upon the fine weather. This unremitting applause amused him. When greeted at the office with "Nice day, Mr. Riley," he smiled broadly.

Mr. Riley—Yes, yes. I've heard it very highly spoken of.

An American manufacturer was taking a Soviet commissar on a tour of his plant. Suddenly, the noon whistle blew and thousands of men streamed out of the plant for lunch.

The visitor was agast.

Ivan (The Russian)—they're all escaping!

Mr. Long (The American)—Just wait, they'll be back.

The whistle blew again at 1 o'clock and all the men returned to work. The visitor was noticeably impressed.

Mr. Long (The American)—Now, about those machines you were interested in seeing.

Ivan (The Russian)—Forget the machines. How much for that whistle?

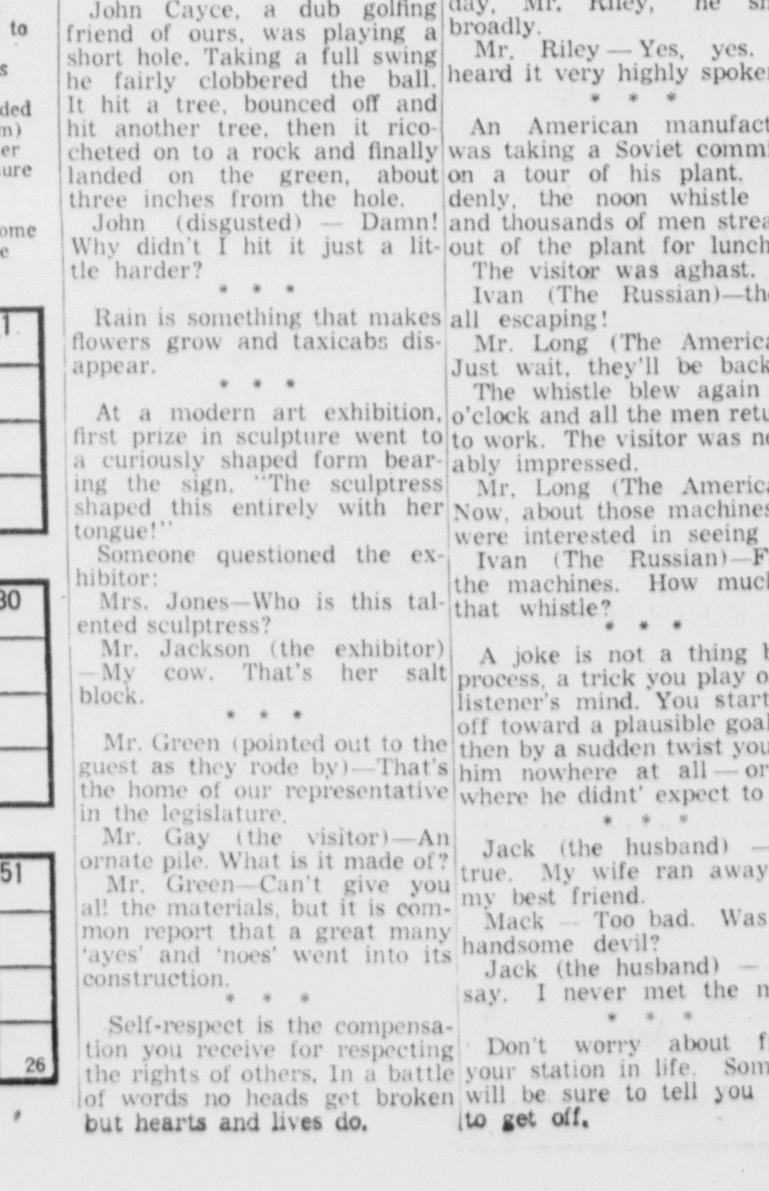

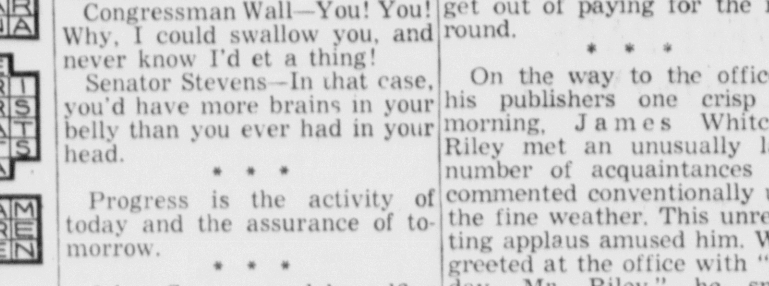

A joke is not a thing but a process, a trick you play on the listener's mind. You start him off toward a plausible goal, and then by a sudden twist you land him nowhere at all—or just where he didn't expect to go.

Jack (the husband)—It's true. My wife ran away with my best friend.

Mack—Too bad. Was he a handsome devil?

Jack (the husband)—Can't say. I never met the man.

Don't worry about finding your station in life. Somebody will be sure to tell you where to get off.

palliate (PAL-ee-ate) to lessen; to reduce

After he had severely burned his hand on the hot stove the elderly man rubbed an ointment on his skin to palliate the pain.

The smooth-talking traveling salesman, a man who claimed he had certain tonics which could palliate all ailments, was demonstrating his product to an unsuspecting audience. After his attractive fiancée had left him to marry the stock car driver, the young man, trying to palliate his loss, began to drink excessively.

Oswald: "For people who want to play bridge for nothing but relaxation, I do feel that too many conventions are out of place. The average player should not attempt to make every bridge game a memory exercise. On the other hand, if you play in a national championship, you should be expected to extend yourself. A golf champion uses 14 clubs—the ordinary player should get along with half as many." Jim: "One artificial convention is almost universal. That is the Blackwood four and five no-trump. Let's talk about it this week."

Oswald: "Today's hand shows Blackwood in its simplest form. North's three no-trump response shows a balanced hand with 15-17 high card points but those points don't mean too much to South. He doesn't care about points. What he wants to know is how many aces North has."

Jim: "The Blackwood convention lets him find out. His four no-trump bid says, 'Partner! If you have no aces or four aces, then bid five clubs; if you have one ace, bid five diamonds; with two aces, bid five hearts; with three aces, bid five spades, and leave the rest to me.'" Oswald: "North responds dutifully and shows two aces, whereupon South contracts for the cinch six spades."

Jim: "We gave the example with malice aforethought. Those who play that any four no-trump bid is Blackwood have no trouble with this hand. Some experts would have real trouble. They play that, under certain circumstances, a bid of four no-trump is just a strong no-trump bid and not a demand for aces."

Smothers Not So Shocking

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Watching the Smothers Brothers Show on CBS these Sunday nights is, in a way, like watching the old Jack Paar shows. The viewer is looking for daring and shock almost as much as jokes and musical numbers.

But as far as shocks were concerned Sunday, they were about as strong as those received by touching metal after walking across a carpet.

Predictable Jokes
Tommy Smothers, backed by the chorus, did have a long song called "Lloyd George Knew My Father," done to the music of "Onward Christian Soldiers." Pete Seeger, the folk singer, did have a number of war songs to sing, dating back to "Yankee Doodle," including a parody of 1898 sung to the tune of "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp the Boys Are Marching," although the music seems associated with the war of 1914.

Seeger, an attractive performer, also sang a narrative number about soldiers on maneuvers led by a foolish captain into quicksand in the Mississippi River. But there seemed to be little to get very steamed up about in the content of his performance.

There was a not altogether successful series of sketches built around a poll which included a Negro named George Wallace, with all the predictable jokes about the similarity of name, and one pretty weak sally about President Johnson.

The program, which has received so much publicity about its "controversy" and troubles with network censors, seems to be in the process of discovering, as have other shows in the past, that it is difficult if not impossible, to be outrageous, incisive, witty and funny week after week.

ABC's documentary about the Vienna Boys Choir on Saturday night showed the intensive training and discipline of the youngsters between age nine and the time their voices change.

Language Big Problem
The sopranos live and work in an atmosphere as austere and rigid as a military school, receiving a general education as well as a musical one. Most of the program was devoted to voice training, and the subject was tackled by following the career of one little boy, a serious, sweet-faced child named Reinhard.

The program's big problem was that of language. Since the boys and the teachers spoke English, it was obvious that all concerned were play-acting for the cameras. The program's most rewarding moments came when the choir was singing or staging a performance of an Offenbach opera.

Barbara Staying
NBC, still shuffling its future program, now has decided to keep "I Dream of Jeannie" next season. It was not included in the first announcement of plans.

Redistricting Heads for Quick OK

By CHARLES DUMAS

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The legislature's leaders moved today for quick passage of their bi-partisan plan for redrawing the state's congressional district lines.

Speaker Anthony J. Travia said he would ask the Assembly to approve it at this afternoon's session, Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges said his house would follow suit by Tuesday.

"There's no trouble, and I don't expect any," Travia said. "I'd like to get this out of the way and move on to other business," Brydges said.

The leaders' confidence that they could dispose swiftly and peacefully of what ordinarily might be a volatile political issue seemed to be justified.

The redistricting plan had strong backing within both the Democratic and Republican parties and has stirred no significant dissent since it was unveiled last Thursday.

While it would revise the lines of all districts in New York City and its Long Island and Westchester suburbs, the changes would be minor in most cases. Update, only three districts would be affected.

Moreover, by agreement, the alterations were designed to preserve the present political balance in New York's congressional delegation, which Democrats dominate, 26-15.

Meanwhile, as the Senate and Assembly entered another work week, this other business awaited their attention:

Gov. Rockefeller submitted a bill that would require licensing of all auto-repair shops in this state, as a device to protect consumers from overcharges and unnecessary repairs.

Travia said he leaned toward the idea, Brydges said he would like to think about it.

Travia revealed over the weekend that he and Brydges disagreed on a major economy cut in Rockefeller's $15.7-million deficiency budget bill — specifically a $5-million loan to help the New Niagara Frontier Transportation Authority get into operation.

Travia, who comes from Brooklyn, wants to cut the loan to $322,000, arguing that the legislature can decide later whether the rest should be provided. Brydges, who represents the Niagara Falls area, maintains that the full $5 million is needed right now.

The deficiency bill is submitted annually to cover spending items not anticipated when the main budget was adopted, the year before.

He said that, while most of the approximately 100,000 repair shops in the state are honest, a "relatively few" have been cheating the public and should be stopped.

His bill would empower the state motor vehicle commissioner — beginning next Jan. 1 — to set licensing standards, investigate applicants and discipline those who get out of line.

The commissioner could lift a license — and thus put a shop out of business — for any one of these reasons:

— Making false statements in applying for a license.

— Failing to perform repairs as advertised.

— Making false or misleading statements about the work performed.

— Making unnecessary repairs.

— Billing a customer for work that was not performed.

In processing the deficiency budget bill, the Assembly Ways and Means Committee and the Senate Finance Committee agreed on cuts totaling nearly $7 million but, reflecting the views of Travia and Brydges, fell out on the Niagara money.

Among the major agreed cuts are:

— $2.8 million from a $5.1-million request for the Pure Waters Authority. The committee said they might restore the money later, after getting a better appraisal of the agency's workload.

— $1.5 million requested as an advance for the Adirondack Mountain Authority to complete development of the Prospect Mountain toll road. The authority has been unable to repay previous advances and the state is thinking of taking over its operations.

— $799,000 from a $1.4-million request for improvements to the Mt. Van Hoevenberg Recreation Area in the Adirondacks. The committee said the balance would be enough to continue development of the facility.

— $330,000 from a $7.3-million request for funds to aid various airport improvement projects across the state. The committee said they denied funds for projects at Canastota, Cortland, Hornell, Monticello and Potsdam "because of planning deficiencies." But, they said, this was done "without prejudice" — indicating the money might be supplied later, in the main budget.

Hint Compromise on CR

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate headed for another vote on ending its six-week debate on civil rights legislation as Republican opponents hinted at a possible compromise.

The fate of the civil rights protection bill and its proposed open-housing amendment, both strongly urged by President Johnson, could hinge on the outcome of today's bid to invoke cloture, or cut off debate.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, who joined with Southern Democrats last week in successfully blocking cloture, talked of getting a compromise measure he could endorse if the second debate-ending move failed.

The same line was taken by Sen. Jack Miller, R-Iowa. He noted cloture was obtained on the landmark 1964 civil rights measure only after a compromise agreement was worked out.

But political cynics among the bill's supporters appeared likely to view Dirksen's compromise talk as a means of keeping together the conservative Republican-Southern coalition that opposed cloture in the first place.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield has said that barring unforeseen circumstances, he would move to lay the bill aside — all but killing its chances of passage this session — if the Senate refused a second time cut off debate.

The first vote last Tuesday on ending debate was 55-37, or 7 short of the required two-thirds majority. No senator has announced a switch in his position since then.

Bipartisan sponsors of the open-housing amendment hope to pick up votes, however, by announcing they will propose modifications limiting its coverage.

Hint Compromise on CR

By JOHN CHADWICK

But political cynics among the bill's supporters appeared likely to view Dirksen's compromise talk as a means of keeping together the conservative Republican-Southern coalition that opposed cloture in the first place.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield has said that barring unforeseen circumstances, he would move to lay the bill aside—all but killing its chances of passage this session — if the Senate refused a second time cut off debate.

The first vote last Tuesday on ending debate was 55-37, or 7 short of the required two-thirds majority. No senator has announced a switch in his position since then.

Bipartisan sponsors of the open-housing amendment hope to pick up votes, however by announcing they will propose modifications limiting its coverage.

Redistricting Heads for Quick OK

BY CHARLES DUMAS
ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The legislature's leaders moved today for quick passage of their bi-partisan plan for redrawing the state's congressional district lines.

Speaker Anthony J. Travia said he would ask the Assembly to approve it at this afternoon's session. Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges said his house would follow suit by Tuesday.

"There's no trouble, and I don't expect any," Travia said. "I'd like to get this out of the way and move on to other business," Brydges said.

The leaders' confidence that they could dispose swiftly and peacefully of what ordinarily might be a volatile political issue seemed to be justified.

The redistricting plan had strong backing within both the Democratic and Republican parties and has stirred no significant dissent since it was unveiled last Thursday.

While it would revise the lines of all districts in New York City and its Long Island and Westchester suburbs, the changes would be minor in most cases. Upstate, only three districts would be affected.

Moreover, by agreement, the alterations were designed to preserve the present political balance in New York's congressional delegation, which Democrats dominate, 26-15.

Meanwhile, as the Senate and Assembly entered another work week, this other business awaited their attention:

Gov. Rockefeller submitted a bill that would require licensing of all auto-repair shops in this state, as a device to protect consumers from overcharges and unnecessary repairs.

Travia said he leaned toward the idea. Brydges said he would like to think about it.

Travia revealed over the weekend that he and Brydges disagreed on a major economy cut in Rockefeller's $115.7-million deficiency budget bill — specifically a $5-million loan to help the New Niagara Frontier Transportation Authority get into operation.

Travia, who comes from Brooklyn, wants to cut the loan to $22,000, arguing that the legislature can decide later whether the rest should be provided. Brydges, who represents the Niagara Falls area, maintains that the full $5 million is needed right now.

The deficiency bill is submitted annually to cover spending items not anticipated when the main budget was adopted, the year before.

He said that, while most of the approximately 100,000 repair shops in the state are honest, a "relatively few" have been cheating the public and should be stopped.

His bill would empower the state motor vehicle commissioner — beginning next Jan. 1 — to set licensing standards, investigate applicants and discipline those who get out of line. The commissioner could lift a license and thus put a shop out of business — for any one of these reasons:

— Making false statements in applying for a license.

— Failing to perform repairs as advertised.

— Making false or misleading statements about the work performed.

— Billing a customer for work that was not performed.

In processing the deficiency budget bill, the Assembly Ways and Means Committee and the Senate Finance Committee agreed on cuts totaling nearly $7 million but, reflecting the views of Travia and Brydges, fell out on the Niagara money.

Among the major agreed cuts are:

— $2.8 million from a $5.1-million request for the Pure Waters Authority. The committee said they might restore the money later, after getting a better appraisal of the agency's workload.

— $1.5 million requested as an advance for the Adirondack Mountain Authority to complete development of the Prospect Mountain toll road. The authority has been unable to repay previous advances and the state is thinking of taking over its operations.

— $799,000 from a $1.4-million request for improvements to the Mt. Van Hoevenberg Recreation Area in the Adirondacks. The committee said the balance would be enough to continue development of the facility.

— $330,000 from a $7.3-million request for funds to aid various airport - improvement projects across the state. The committee said they denied funds for projects at Canastota, Cortland, Hornell, Monticello and Pots-
